Athens, Ga., October 11.—Athens tonight is the City Without a Snore. At an hour when the serene little city is wont to be just dropping off beneath the tufted wool comfort in the midst of the antique four-poster, the streets are palpitating with life and traffic and motor horns and the calls of carefree youth.

Now and then one hears the shrill call of the alumnae to his roommate. The Class of Blank has not drawn one yet. The atmosphere is vibrant with the excitement of the approaching dawn, 40 special trains, 9,000 automobiles and the Yale-Georgia game.

On the billiard-table green surface of Georgia's new gleaming Sanford stadium, Georgia's adolescent Bulldogs will battle the veteran eleven from old Yale tomorrow afternoon. The gold tickets read: "Please be in your seat at 1:45, Eastern time." The exercises dedicating the stadium to the cause of higher football will start then. The kick-off is programmed for 2 o'clock.

Georgia Keyed for Game.
There beneath what promises to be a brilliant sky, the sophomore eleven of Georgia, so-styled because at least six of them are playing their first year on the varsity, will attempt to halt the intricate spin plays and tricky criss-cross drives of the Big Blue crew. They are keyed to play their best game and in such a frame of mind many a team, rated inferior in skill, seizes the opportune break and scores a glorious triumph.

A notable throng of 35,000 people will see the game. They will come from all over Dixieland and from the east, for thousands of Yale men and expatriated Georgians have come south for the contest. They will come by special train, by automobile, by airplane and some even by two-horse team.

Four governors will occupy seats of honor close to the executives of Yale and of Georgia. They are Governor L. G. Hardman, of Georgia; Governor O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina; Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, and Governor Bibb Graves, of Alabama.

Yale in Town.
Yale's football team, headed by Coach Mal Stevens, arrived this afternoon on a special train accompanied by several hundred undergraduates and the 50-piece Yale band. All but the football team are being fed here tonight. Colonial homes, dignified abodes that have been centers of culture since before the war, were thrown open to the New Englanders. Hospitality that has the faint sweet perfume of a gentler, simpler era was extended them. The visitors, no doubt, will return home with a recollection of the south just as

BY RALPH MCGILL.

The North Carolina worm turned and became a snake dance Friday afternoon at Tech Flats.

North Carolina's fleet backs stormed the citadel that has repulsed every attack for two years and reduced it to ashes of defeat. Tech's shattered eleven reeled back to the dressing room with an 18-to-7 defeat, the first since October 30, 1927, when Notre Dame won, 13 to 0.

It was a defeat that came as a great shock to the army of Tech supporters lulled into security by two years of successive victories. There had been some suggestion that Tech, suffering more losses than any other eleven in the Conference, might find the going hard and dangerous.

The rank and file didn't believe it and sat stunned as the fleet Tarheel backs split the Tech line and boxed in the ends.

Had it not been for Warner Mizell's great toe and the gallant punt returns of Stump Thomason the Tech eleven would have been routed entirely. For the Tarheels had the better team. In fact, they had the only team. The Jackets were playing individuals, knitting their teamwork together only at rare moments and then not for long.

Led by the Magnificent Midget Johnny Branch, the Tarheel backs had the situation well in hand at all times. The Magnificent Midget was a thing apart, a fleeting ghost of a player who spun through his foes and left wide and consternation in his wake. He did not make the many gray and gaudy punt returns that the Mighty Atom Stump Thomason made. He saved his for one great effort, a 65-yard dash for a touchdown that was one of the most magnificent pieces of football footling the Flats has ever seen.

North Carolina scored once in the first period on Jimmy Magner's 19-yard gallop. They scored twice in the second period. Johnny Branch, whom Mr. Tennyson may have been writing about when he wrote of the brook that went on and on and on, gave the Tarheels the second period and Jimmy Magner made the second one in that same period.

Tech's only score was one which the Mighty Atom made. A fine, old-fashioned Thomason journey off tackle. He tried and he tried, did the Mighty Atom. He always had

CUBS WIN THIRD
AT PHILADELPHIA
BY 3-TO-1 SCOREHornsby and Cuyler
Smash Out Victory in Sixth—A's Outthit Opponents, Fail in Pinch.BY ALAN J. GOULD,
Associated Press Sports Editor.

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, October 11.—(AP)—Just when it looked as though they intended to spend the rest of the series striking out, Rogers Hornsby and Kiki Cuyler suddenly recovered their batting eyes this afternoon and propelled the Chicago Cubs to their third victory in the 1929 world's series, 3 to 1.

Hornsby and Cuyler were tied for the dubious distinction of striking out six times when they came to bat against George Earnshaw, big right-hander of the A's, in the sixth inning of the third game, but in rapid succession they did enough damage to account for the entire margin by which the Cubs won behind the crafty twirling of Guy Bush and put themselves back into the battle for the championship.

The Cubs were outthit, 9 to 6, and Bush was hand pressed most of the way, but the battling Bruins packed enough punch in their one-inning rally to check the wild dash of Connie Mack's agile young men, break their strikeout jinx for the time being and spoil the homecoming of the American league champions.

At the same time, the Cubs bagged the National league's first series victory since October 10, 1926, thereby ending a record losing streak that had extended through 10 games in three years.

The Athletics still lead by the commanding margin of 2 to 1, needing two more victories to clinch Mack's fourth straight championship. They are still big favorites, but it is at least a fight now, instead of a rout. The series is certain to go through two more games, scheduled here tomorrow and Monday, but if Charley Root can square accounts for the Cubs tomorrow, with Lefty Grove in the box for the A's, it will be anybody's battle once more.

The home town reception for the hitherto conquering A's was marked by a paid attendance of only 29,921 spectators, the smallest in nine years of world series play and astonishingly short of the expected figure of around 38,000 to 40,000. The big shortage was understood to be due to the refusal of the club gate tenders to accept pasteboards that had gone through the hands of speculators and emerged without the regulation government tax stamping.

Even allowing for this situation, however, and the erection of big bleacher stands atop a row of houses outside the park, not many more than 30,000 fans actually viewed the proceedings in which their favorites went down to defeat. Ticket speculators, in any event, apparently took a terrific trimming while the enterprising resident owners of the housepot

Everything in Readiness for Atlanta's Reception of Caravan at 3 O'Clock
This Afternoon.

An elaborate reception, mapped out by a committee of the local chapter of the National Aeronautic Association and to be participated in by thousands of Atlantans, is ready and waiting for the 41 members of the Ford Reliability Air Tour who are scheduled to land at Candler field at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The tour will depart from Jacksonville, which was reached safely Friday by every plane in the squadron, about 10 o'clock this morning, arrive at Macon about 12:30 and take off at Miller field there about 2 o'clock.

The advance press plane, a snowy white Fairchild KR-34, a three-place open cockpit biplane equipped with a Wright J-6, 165-horsepower engine, reached Candler field Friday afternoon, with Robert H. Rankin as pilot and James Larwood, a former Atlantan, as passenger.

This ship, which is a member of the Fairchild "White Fleet" in the tour, is flown on a schedule which takes it to every point on the route about 24 hours before the main body of the squadron arrives. It will take off Sunday morning for "Sky Harbor," Murfreesboro, Tenn., the next stop.

The other two tour members of the "White Fleet" are Mrs. Keith Miller and Dr. Morgan Harkman, whose mounts are identical to the ship flown into Atlanta Friday.

The first planes "stated" to reach

JOHN GREEN DIES
AT HOME OF SONFuneral of Prominent Business and Church
Leader Will Be Conducted
This Afternoon.

John M. Green, 60, for many years one of the most prominent business men and church leaders in Atlanta, died Friday morning in Montgomery, Ala., where he had lived with his son, Cliff Green, since the death of his wife in January.

Mr. Green was a leading figure in the fertilizer and cotton oil business in Georgia in the '80s and '90s. He was connected with several cotton oil mill concerns and was president of the John M. Green Fertilizer Company.

A native of Marietta, he was a member of the Georgia Battalion cadets of the Georgia Military academy when that body became a unit of the Confederate army. Only three men, Lloyd G. Hall, former president of the Gate City Bank of Atlanta; H. H. Cabaniss, former business manager of the Journal, and Robert L. Rogers, an attorney in Texas, remain of the battalion, which was under the command of Captain F. W. Capers.

For 50 years Mr. Green was one of the most active members of the Baptist church in the state of Georgia. He was chairman of the board of deacons of the First Baptist church of Atlanta for 30 years, and was a member of the building committee of the church when it stood on the present site of the postoffice. For 25 years he taught a men's Sunday school class of the church. Very few Baptist conventions and bursar services were held in Georgia without Mr. Green being present.

Mr. Green was a past commander of United Confederate Veterans' Camp, No. 150, of Atlanta. Members of the camp are expected to attend the funeral in a body.

Surviving him, in addition to his son, Cliff Green, is another son, Frank Green, of Atlanta; a stepson, Marion E. Lazenby, and a grandson, Clifton Rauscher.

The body will be brought to Atlanta at 7:10 o'clock this morning for funeral services and burial. Services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the First Baptist church, with the Rev. Ellis A. Fuller officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery. Pallbearers selected are J. M. Bone, H. B. Davis, Colonel R. L. Buzz, J. M. Dobbs, N. E. Marshburn and W. H. Zachary. Deacons of the First Baptist church will form an honorary escort.

Physician Is Accused of Swearing Falsely in Regard to Condition of
Former Banker."UNDERCOVER" MAN
WATCHES MANLEYAllen Is Said To Have Sworn Agent "Planted" in Sanitarium Was
"Mentally Incompetent."

Investigation of the government charge that a conspiracy exists to prevent trial of W. D. Manley, former Atlantan banker, on a charge of using the mails to defraud, was climaxed Friday when his physician, Dr. H. Dawson Allen, of Allen's Invalid Home at Milledgeville, where the banker has been confined, was indicted for perjury on three counts.

The government not only charges that Dr. Allen gave false testimony before the grand jury in regard to the condition of his patient, but sprang a big surprise when it disclosed the fact that an "undercover" man had been planted in the sanitarium, and that the physician had gone so far as to swear that this agent was mentally incompetent.

Summoned on Contempt.

Early this week Dr. Allen had been called before the grand jury and asked a number of questions concerning Manley, who is a patient at the institution. On his refusal to answer some of the queries he was summoned before Judge Sam Sibley on a contempt charge.

After a hearing, in which his lawyer contended that he was not required under the law to answer such questions and that to do so might disclose the nature of the defense planned by Manley's attorneys, he was ordered by the judge to give the information asked, and it was learned followed instructions.

It was during his appearance before the grand jury and the judge that he is alleged to have made the statements on which the government charges are based.

Asked about the mental condition of Charles Seymour, an inmate of the institution, the physician is said to have characterized him as mentally unbalanced to such a degree that he could not be a competent witness.

U. S. Agent "Planted."

Friday it was revealed by the government, through District Attorney Clint Hager, that Seymour was a federal agent and that he had been "planted" in the institution two months ago to observe Manley and to make reports on his condition and the routine of his life at the sanitarium.

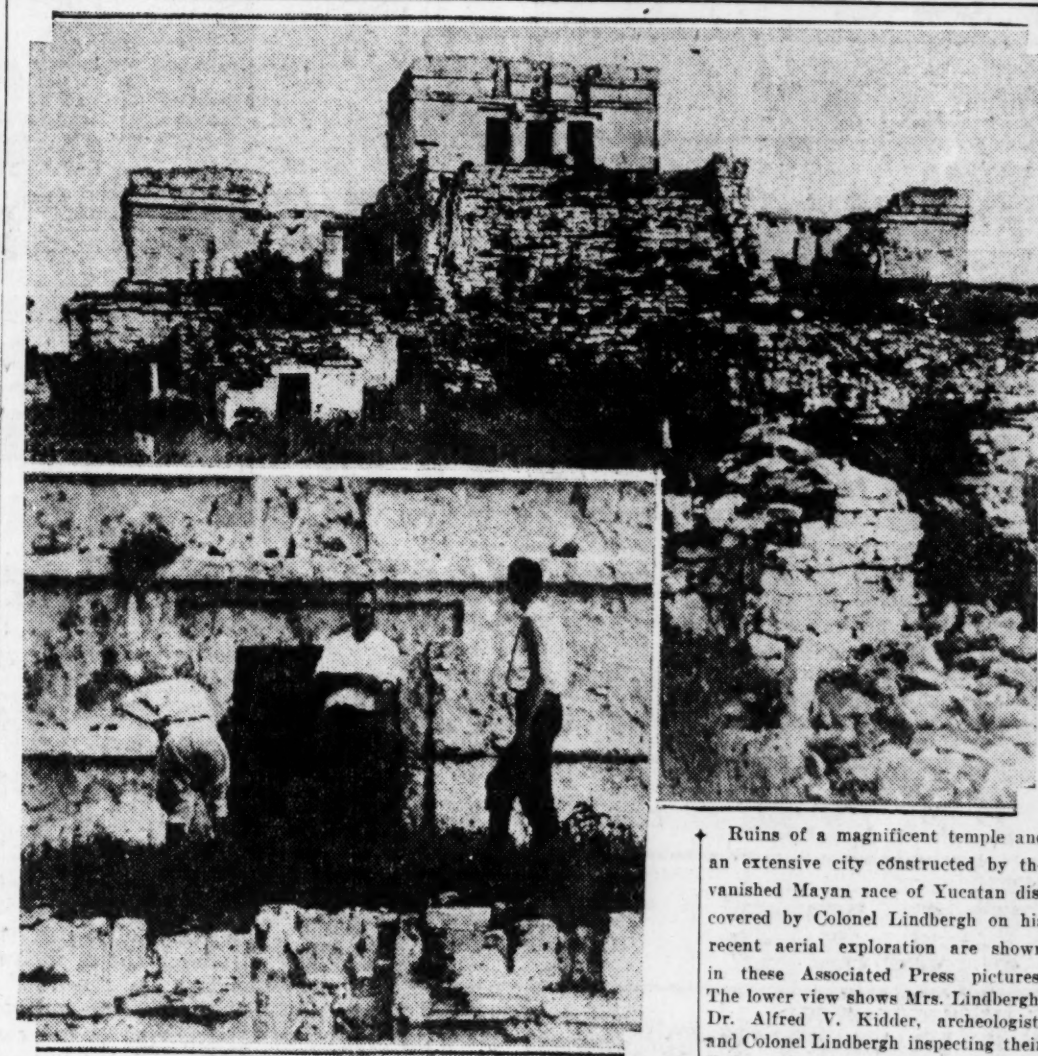

The other two counts included in the indictment charge that Dr. Allen swore falsely when he testified before the jury that Manley had been continuously in his room in the sanitarium since September 15, and that he also swore falsely when he told Federal Judge Sibley that the defendant had been confined to his bed since September 18.

The questions asked of Manley's attorney in the grand jury room by District Attorney Hager and Assistant District Attorneys Lindsay and Chastain related to the mental and physical condition of the former banker and as to the personnel of employees and patients at the sanitarium.

At a late hour Friday night no warrant had been served on Dr. Allen, and he was also sought and received legal advice from the attorney general of Georgia with respect to two ballots, the validity of which is in question.

There were 65 persons who voted. Two of them voted blank ballots that cannot be counted for either candidate. Of the 63 remaining ballots, 32 of them were cast for Major Charles E. Thompson, Jr., and 31 were voted for Major Thomas L. Alexander. Of the 63 I find 2 of them to have been illegally cast. One is a proxy and cannot be counted for Major Thompson. The vote of a warrant officer cannot be counted for Major Alexander.

ELECTION IN 122D
WON BY THOMPSONIllegal Vote Thrown Out
Major C. E. Thompson
Given Post Over Major
T. L. Alexander.

Major Charles E. Thompson became lieutenant colonel of the 122d infantry Friday over Major Thomas L. Alexander, when the throwing out of an illegal vote cast by a warrant officer gave him a majority of one.

The decision was announced by Adjutant General Homer C. Parker following receipt of an opinion from Attorney General George Napier on the validity of two of the votes cast in the election.

A warrant officer had voted for Major Alexander and a commissioned officer for Major Thompson. Both were held illegal.

Their elimination gave Major Thompson 31 votes and Major Alexander 30. Altogether 65 ballots were cast in the election. Two of them, which were blank, were discarded at the first count.

The new lieutenant colonel is a native of Atlanta and has been a member of the national guard since 1912. He is a graduate of the University of Georgia in the class of 1915, where he was captain of the football team one year and a member of the mythical all-southern team for two years.

In the World War he entered service as a first lieutenant, spending 18 months overseas. After the war he resigned with the rank of captain. He was in the third division, seventh infantry.

The adjutant's report said, in part: "I have examined each ballot cast. Of the 63 remaining ballots, 32 of them were cast for Major Charles E. Thompson, Jr., and 31 were voted for Major Thomas L. Alexander. Of the 63 I find 2 of them to have been illegally cast. One is a proxy and cannot be counted for Major Thompson. The vote of a warrant officer cannot be counted for Major Alexander."

The visiting governors of three states at the Southeastern Fair saw Georgia's premier product, children, on public exhibition.

It was both Governors' Day and Children's Day. Also it was next to the last day given Atlantans to enjoy the fair, which will come to a brilliant close tonight.

In deference to the first half of the day's dedication with the pomp of police guards and the dignity of official welcomes, Bibb Graves, of Alabama; O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina, and Franklin Roosevelt, of New York, came.

With all the freedom of childhood loosed from school, shouting, hooting and laughing, the other half of the day's honorees, hundreds of hundreds of children, milled and jammed through the midway and crowded through the exhibition buildings.

Two Arrive First.

Governors Graves and Gardner were the first arrivals. They came at 10 o'clock, accompanied by their host in Georgia, Governor L. G. Hardman. Governor Roosevelt did not reach the fair until 1:30 o'clock. A large crowd, gathered around the bandstand in anticipation of seeing him, had patiently waited, listening to the intermittent music of the band.

A shout, "He's coming," and they turned to see his car, preceded by two motorcycle officers, climb an incline and draw to a stop.

A. C. Newell, president of the Fair Association, greeted Governor Roosevelt. On his solicitation, although the party was pressed for time, Governor Roosevelt climbed from his car for a brief address.

TARIFF DOOMED,
BORAH DECLARESSenator Tells Hoover
There Is Slim Chance for Revision Before Regular Session.BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, October 11.—(AP)—President Hoover was told today by Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, that prospects for passage of the tariff bill by the senate before the regular session opens in December appeared unlikely.

At a White House conference, the republican leader called attention that in the remaining six weeks the senate has yet to act upon all of the numerous rate schedules. There was no indication of the attitude of the president toward going ahead with the tariff measure in the regular session, should it still be pending at that time.

Meanwhile, the debate in the senate took on renewed intensity as late in the day, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, had expunged from the Record a telegram from the American Protective Conference which had been presented for reading by Senator Watson.

Robinson, in vigorous language, resented an attack made upon Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, in the telegram which he regarded as a violation of senate rules and of ethics because of the absence at the time of Senator Ashurst. As Senator Watson offered to withdraw the telegram, Senator Robinson moved that it be expunged from the Record and this was quickly done without a roll call.

The telegram, signed by Matthew Wall, president, and other officers of the labor organization, was addressed to Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, who was the subject of an attack by Ashurst earlier in the week. The Arizona had challenged Senator Reed's sincerity and questioned his right to speak for labor.

Recalling that no senator had risen to reply to that speech, Robinson shouted that he would not permit the senate to open its doors to "extraneous agencies to make attacks upon individual senators." He noted that Ashurst was not present to defend himself and declared that language to describe the situation would not be fitting for the Record.

Senator King, democrat, Utah, and Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, also had jumped to their feet to protest against the telegram. Senator Watson explained that the telegram had been handed to him by Senator Reed and that he had not regarded it as an attack upon Ashurst, for whom he expressed high regard. He said he would withdraw it in view of the attitude that it was an attack upon Ashurst.

C. F. von HERMANN,
Meteorologist, Weather Bureau.The Constitution
At the Georgia-Yale Game

As usual, The Constitution will cover the Georgia-Yale football game in thorough, painstaking style.

Ed Danforth, sports editor, will write the story of the game in his picturesque style.

Ralph McGill will paint for you a word picture of the great crowd and the human interest sidelights.

H. J. Stegeman, athletic director of the University of Georgia, will write a critical report on the game.

Kankakee Anderson Georgia correspondent, will cover the happenings in the Georgia dressing room, intimate notes on the players and their reactions to the game.

W. O. McGeehan, sports writer for the New York Herald-Tribune will contribute one of his keen analytical stories.

Kenneth Rogers will cover the action during the game with his camera, while J. T. Holloway will make airplane pictures of the throng.

The Constitution's report cannot be matched by any in the south on the outstanding game of the day.

TAX ASSOCIATION CHIEFS HONORED AT LOCAL DINNER

Dr. Fred R. Fairchild, professor of political economy at Yale university and president of the National Tax Association, and W. G. Query, secretary of the National Tax Association and state tax commissioner of South Carolina, Friday were featured in an informal dinner by prominent Atlantans at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel. William Candler and W. C. Rorer, manager of the Biltmore, were hosts for the occasion.

Indication that an effort will be made to bring the 1930 convention of the National Tax Association to Atlanta was seen as a sequel to the gathering.

Mrs. Fairchild is being accompanied by Mrs. Fairchild and is among the prominent Yale contingent visiting in Georgia for the Yale-Georgia football game at Athens today. Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Brittain were among the guests at the Biltmore dinner.

ments at the quarterly meeting of the Federal Business Association, held in the district court of the postoffice building, John M. Slaton, Jr., acting president, presiding.

At 5 o'clock he left for Washington, where he will attend a number of important conferences on far eastern affairs, returning to China shortly after the first of the year.

Julean Arnold Talks to Club Of Chinese Trade

China is a country of vast potentialities for the sale of Georgia-made goods, it was pointed out by Julean Arnold, American commercial attaché to the land of the Ming and the before members of the Atlanta Foreign Trade Club, George A. Bland, vice president of the club and chairman of the foreign trade committee of the Chamber of Commerce, presided.

"China's per capita foreign trade amounts to only $3, as compared with about $80 for the United States. The spread between these two figures will give one some idea of the tremendous opportunities ahead for American enterprise, especially when the amount is multiplied by China's 440-odd million inhabitants."

The speaker declared that China was in the throes of a great awakening and ventured the prediction that it would not be many years before she would be largely modernized.

The commercial attaché pointed out that Americans as a whole do not understand China. Most Americans, he said, have an idea that China is populated by a backward, unintelligent race of aborigines. "Many of them may be illiterate but they are certainly not lacking in intelligence," he declared.

Throughout all classes of Chinese society an age-old culture, that far antedates our own, pervades. Courtesy is native to the Chinese people, regardless of the social strata.

Mr. Arnold addressed the students in commerce at Georgia Tech Friday morning. Dean Thomas W. Noel presiding. He outlined some of the opportunities in the Orient for young Americans in business and engineering, and urged that more of our American schools and colleges give instruction pertaining to Asia.

At 4 o'clock the commercial attaché spoke before the heads of the various federal government departments.

AWARD OF CITY HALL TO DINKLERS IS SEEN

Withdrawal of Palmer Bid
Expected To Speed Transfer of Property.

Announcement of withdrawal of the bid of Palmer, Inc., for lease of the present site of the Atlanta city hall at Forsyth and Marietta streets was believed Friday to have paved the way for early award of the property on a 65-year lease for $3,550,000 to the Carling Hotel Company, Inc., an Atlanta concern.

Palmer presented an offer for $3,225,000 for the tract Thursday with deduction of $26,047 as a real estate commission.

Carling Dinkler, president of the Carling corporation, remained silent Friday on plans for the $2,500,000 structure which he is to erect on the tract, declaring that no announcement could be possibly made prior to actual acquisition of the site by his company.

Probability was that Mayor I. N. Ragsdale and council members will act Monday to remove parliamentary bars to awarding the contract to the Carling company.

When council at a special session

Thursday afternoon voted 11 to 5 against awarding the lease to the Carling company, notice of reconsideration was served by Councilman James J. Wells, of the eighth ward, and George Lyle, of the eleventh. Mr. Lyle has indicated that he will withdraw his second to the notice and leave the Wells motion unsupported which would automatically pass the lease proposal to the aldermanic board at its regular meeting October 21 for its action.

Under provisions of the lease paper and amendments offered and sanctioned by council, the Carling company must file with council assurance that a building costing at least $2,500,000 is to be erected on the site within 30 days after the lease is accepted by the city. If this contract is not carried out, the company will forfeit a $50,000 check which is now posted and which will be held as a guarantee that the company will perform its agreement.

J. C. PENNEY CO. MANAGERS CLOSE CONVENTION HERE

J. C. Penney Company's retail department store managers of this section Friday brought their semi-annual convention to a close with a morning session at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

The Penney concern, which is one of the largest chain store organizations in the business world, operates nearly 1,500 retail department stores throughout the country and has a large number of these units established in the smaller cities of Georgia and the surrounding states. About 363 managers of the stores in this territory were in attendance at the recent convention.

A high light of the gathering here was the banquet given Tuesday night in honor of J. C. Penney, founder of the company bearing his name, and one of the outstanding figures in American business. George T. Mitchell, of the personnel department of the Penney organization, presided at the banquet.

HILL TO LECTURE

Tift Boys Win State Livestock Judging Contest

Tift county boys won the annual state live stock judging contest Friday at the Southeastern Fair. The boys will be given a trip to Chicago early in December to participate in the international live stock exposition and boys' and girls' 4-H Club contests. Tift county had a total of 3,173 points, with Laurens county second with 3,085 points. Sumpter county was third, Coweta county fourth and Cobb county fifth. Other counties competing were Appling, Walton and Jefferson. A district elimination contest was held at Atlanta, Americus, Rome, Thomasville, Waycross, Dublin and Athens during the summer to determine the participants at the fair in the annual state contest. The district eliminations and state contest were held under the supervision of G. F. Cunningham, state boys' club agent, from the State College of Agriculture at Athens, Ga. Members of the winning team were Travis Vernon, Britt Davis and Mack Doss, and they are from Tifton. Points were given for judging beef and dairy cattle, swine, both breeding and fat stock, poultry and all the varieties of sheep. The trip to Chicago will be given through the co-operation of the Southeastern Fair Association, Wilson & Co., and Swift & Co.

FOR GOOD EATS

Include in your grocery list today a small bag of Perkerson's Graham Flour and make some Graham Date Muffins, using the following recipe:

2 cups graham flour	1 egg
4 tsp. baking powder	1 cup sweet milk
2 tsp. sugar	2 tsp. melted butter
¾ tsp. salt	¾ cup chopped dates

Add dates and graham flour. Beat egg and add milk, add melted butter. Also add to the graham flour and dates baking powder, sugar and salt. Stir the liquid quickly into dry ingredients. Pour immediately into oiled muffin tins. Bake twenty to twenty-five minutes in hot oven. This makes twelve muffins.

Or you may cook and serve

Mrs. Sarah Powers Hears Death Sentence Pronounced Without Trace of Emotion

Landlady Calm as Judge Condemns Her To Die in Electric Chair November 29.

Macon Ga., October 11.—(P)—Sentence of death in the electric chair was pronounced today upon Mrs. Sarah Powers, 71-year-old boarding house proprietress, following her conviction by a jury as accessory before the fact in the murder of James Parks, young Atlanta printer. The execution was set for November 29. The case of the aged woman, who was accused of being the instigator of a plot to kill Parks so that she might collect a $7,000 double indemnity insurance policy she held on his life, went to the jury late yesterday after a brief trial. The jury retired shortly after midnight without reaching a decision, but early today rendered a verdict of guilty without recommendation for mercy, which made the death penalty mandatory.

E. W. Maynard, counsel for Mrs. Powers, announced this afternoon that he would file a motion for a new trial. He indicated that if necessary he would carry his fight to save the landlady's life to the supreme court of the United States on constitutional grounds.

Story of Officer's Death Brings Clash of Witnesses

Witnesses clashed Friday before the Georgia industrial commission as to the manner of the death of Motorcycle Officer J. D. Parker, of East Point, who was killed on July 28, the city of East Point and the Travelers Insurance Company seeking to show that there was no automobile in the vicinity of the fatal accident and that therefore he could not have met his death in a motorcycle-auto crash.

Parker, according to accounts given at the time, was killed on Chattahoochee avenue while attempting to stop a speeding car. Officer E. B. Andrews, who told the story of his partner's death on the witness stand Friday, said that the two had given chase to a roadster traveling at about 50 miles an hour. After pursuing it about a mile Parker passed him, he said. He ran through a cloud of dust to see his patrol mate drive up alongside the car, the car swerve to the left and the officer and his machine catapult into the air when it struck him.

A negro named Jones, who was a passenger of Parker's machine, was also thrown into the air, it was said. Andrews said he gave over the chase to assist his injured mate. The car was never captured.

Atlanta Theaters To Join In Paying Edison Tribute

A picturesque prologue portraying the six stages in the evolution of light, together with planned showings of special films, will constitute the theatrical contribution to Atlanta's celebration beginning next week of the fiftieth anniversary of the invention of the incandescent light by Thomas A. Edison.

During the week beginning Monday every theater in the city will pay tribute to the inventor by stage skits, films, portraits of Edison and "Light's Golden Jubilee" banners streaming from lobbies and facades.

Carter Barron, manager of Lowe's Capitol, announces that a particularly colorful prologue will be presented at his theater during each performance next week, depicting the development of light down through the "romantic" ages of America, from the red man's wigwag to the present jazz age. Miss Anna Goodman, beautiful and talented Atlanta singer, will be starred in this production, interpreting with timely songs the various epochs of light.

At Keith's Georgia is expected that the "Jubilee" theme will be carried out in appropriate decoration of the lobby with large portraits of the Wizard of Menlo Park, and banners will be hung in the lobby as in all other theaters in the city.

In announcing the special program, Mr. Barron said Miss Goodman would render six songs during the featuring on the stage of paintings showing the Indian age, the Puritan age, the "candle" age, the oil lamp era, the early carbon lamp age and the present improved incandescent electrically lighted age. The songs sung will be, respectively, "Minneloka," "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," "Love's Old Sweet Song," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "In the Gloaming," and "Singing in the Rain."

As a finale to this special prologue following the raising of the curtain, the stage will be set with a huge portrait of Mr. Edison, the work of Ben Marshall, theater artist. This portrait, 500 feet, will occupy the center of the stage while Miss Goodman sings "The Miracle Man," written by George M. Cohen and dedicated to the inventor.

LINER ROOSEVELT SPEEDING AHEAD TO SHIP'S RESCUE

New York, October 11.—(P)—The United States liner President Roosevelt, which has accomplished several notable sea rescues in the past few years, was speeding on another errand of mercy today, according to a wireless message from her commander, Captain Theodore Van Beek, to the line's office here.

The message said: "Am proceeding with all possible speed to S. S. Elenna. Has sick radio operator on board. Expect to reach steamship 10 a. m. latitude 41.19, longitude 57.38. Full details when man on board."

The position given by Captain Van Beek is about 750 miles east of New York.

The Elenna, a 5,000-ton freighter, left Galveston, Texas, October 1 for Bremen, Germany.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR H. H. McCALL, SR., TO BE HELD SUNDAY

Funeral services for H. H. McCall, Sr., well-known Atlanta businessman and president of the Paragon Box Company, who died Thursday night in his apartment at the Georgian Terrace, will be conducted at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church with the Rev. L. R. Christie officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

H. H. McCALL.

Pallbearers will be Dr. W. S. Elkin, Rutherford Lipscomb, W. F. Dykes, George M. Brown, Charles T. Nunnally, Andrew M. Lloyd, Frank E. Lake, Frank Stewart, S. F. Boykin and William R. Hoyt.

MINERS' CHIEFS SEEK RULERSHIP OF 60,000

Springfield, Ill., October 11.—(P)—Alliance of 60,000 Illinois coal miners was the stake for which two opposing miners' chiefs strove in Illinois tonight.

One was the regularly elected president of the Illinois Mine Workers, Harry Fishwick, of Springfield, and the other Frank Heffley, of Collinsville, Ill., named as provisional president by international officers at Indianapolis, who today ordered the elected officers displaced.

Supported by a temporary injunction, granted by Circuit Judge Norman L. Jones, Fishwick still held office tonight, but three blocks away were the three men named as provisional officers, who announced they had settled down to await the court's next move.

Fishwick was optimistic even to the point of cheerfulness. "Good," he said, "We have been expecting this for months. We are fully prepared to throw up our hands and let the court decide. We are not only out of Illinois but, what is more, out of his office in Indianapolis."

Riot Call.

Before the injunction was obtained, before the court's decision, earlier in the day resulted in a riot call for police to prevent provisional officers forcing their way into district headquarters, Frank Heffley established his headquarters in the hotel room and called upon the rank and file of Illinois miners to continue at work as if nothing had happened.

In granting the temporary injunction restraining international officers from revoking the charter of the Illinois district, ousting its officers, establishing a provisional government and taking possession of district headquarters, money and records, Judge Jones deferred setting a date for the hearing.

With Heffley as provisional president, other officers were Joseph P. Goett, of Peoria, as vice president, and John T. Jones, of West Frankfort, as secretary-treasurer.

The international charged irregularities in the last state election, and the state group counter-charged that Lewis was holding office without authority in that he had neglected to hold the usual international convention. The two groups have disagreed time after time.

B. F. HARWOOD DIES AT LOCAL HOSPITAL

B. F. Harwood, 74, of 146 Hurt street, sales manager of the Alexander Seawall Company, died Friday night at a local hospital. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. W. L. Pitts; a brother, Lee Harwood, of Uniontown, Ala., and a nephew, L. W. Pitts, of Beaumont, Texas.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning from the chapel of Atway & Lowndes with the Rev. Louis D. Newton officiating. The body will be taken at 1:25 o'clock this afternoon to Uniontown for burial.

KING OF ENGLAND IS PLAIN "PAPA" TO ROYAL FAMILY

Leeds, England, October 11.—(United News.)—The fact that King George's children affectionately call him "papa" was revealed publicly for the first time here today when the Prince of Wales boarded an airplane for a flight to London.

Princess Mary, Countess of Harewood, accompanied her brother to the flying field and helped him don his flying outfit, asking: "How is papa?" "He is all right," the prince replied.

The prince had spent the night at Goldborough Hall, residence of Princess Mary, when by Robert W. Bingham, publisher of the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times.

Henderson, Ky., October 11.—(P)—Descendants of the members of the pioneer Transylvania company, which mapped out the streets of this city 153 years ago, today tramped through those same streets to honor that sturdy band which is credited with opening Kentucky for settlement by cutting the "wilderness trail."

The occasion was a two-day homecoming, featured by the unveiling of six large bronze tablets depicting outstanding events in the history of the Transylvania company. The tablets were presented by Robert W. Bingham, publisher of the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times.

TEAR BOMBS USED TO SUBDUCE YOUTH

Prisoner Charged With Making Neighbor's Home Target for Bullets.

Charlie Gilmer, 19, of 315 Altoona place, Friday night ran amuck, chasing his mother and sister from their home into the streets, and turning the neighborhood into a modern wild west by the free use of a Winchester rifle, according to police reports. Before the alleged rampage was over police were forced to use tear bombs to subdue him.

After running his mother and sister out of the house, Gilmer is said to have barricaded himself in the basement and to have used the house of a nearby neighbor as a target for his bullets.

When Call Officers Arthur Daily and L. E. Ratledge reached the scene they were made targets for a couple of shots. Then other officers were summoned and brought tear bombs with them. Ratledge and O. R. Jones made their way to the coal chute of the basement and dropped two bombs.

A little later they broke through a window and entered the basement where they found Gilmer unconscious.

He was taken to Grady to be revived and then to police station where he was charged with assault with intent to murder, drunkenness and disorderly conduct and his bond placed at $2,000. He will be tried in police court at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

FALL DEFIES DOCTORS TO APPEAR IN COURT

Washington, October 11.—(P)—The determination of Albert B. Fall to force the government to try him now on charges of bribery or dismiss the indictment caused him today to leave his sick bed, enter court in a wheelchair and through counsel successfully oppose the government's motion for a mistrial.

With that the trial continued. Two witnesses were heard while Fall slumped weakly in a tall chair. He will be taken to court by relatives again tomorrow.

Earlier in the day and prior to Fall's dramatic appearance, Justice William Hitz announced from the bench that four physicians who had examined the former cabinet officer at the court's request had found he was suffering from bronchial pneumonia and that his attendance at court would endanger his life.

At that session government counsel urged the court to declare a mistrial on the basis of the physicians' reports. The defense objected, saying Fall should have the opportunity to secure vindication and asked a recess until Monday.

Justice Hitz reserved his decision until this afternoon, saying, "It is not a trial by jury, it is a trial by ordeal."

Fall to Continue Trial.

Frank J. Hogan, chief counsel for the defense, said Fall would continue the trial or die in court. He said he regretted it was necessary for Fall to continue, adding Fall himself insisted that the government finish his prosecution or dismiss the case. Fall, Hogan said, had told him he would rather die in court than have a mistrial declared and the charge continue to hang over him.

The responsibility for what happens next is the government's, Hogan declared.

Owen Roberts, special government counsel, said the government did not intend to continue, pointing out it had lost its motion to halt the case.

"The government has done all it could to prevent a sick man being brought to court," Roberts said. "We do not intend to dismiss the indictment against Fall."

Roberts added a dismissal virtually would mean the end of the government's case against Doherty, who is charged with giving Fall $100,000 for the Elk Hills, Cal., naval oil lease. It is this sum the government contends was a bribe, while the defense asserts it merely was a loan to an "old friend."

The government at once called C. C. Chase, Fall's son-in-law and former collector of customs at El Paso, who described the purchase of the Harris ranch in New Mexico by Fall with money obtained from Doherty. Chase said Fall told him the money was a loan, for which Fall had given him a note.

The Chicago-We Will landed at Skyharbor airport a few minutes before 7 o'clock this morning just after it had passed its 264th hour in the air. The end of the flight was forced by inability to refuel the plane because of dense fog.

The fog ended the fourth attempt of the Chicago-We Will to surpass the 242-hour record of the St. Louis Robin. The first two flights, in July, ended within a few hours, but early in August the plane stayed aloft 201 hours, being forced down then because of magnetic trouble.

The latest flight was started inauspiciously at 6:52 a. m. October 7, even the names of the pilots being suppressed. It was learned just last night, however, that they were John and Kenneth Hunter. John had piloted the refueling plane during the Chicago-We Will's previous flight. His brother is chief pilot at the South Bend (Ind.) airport.

A heavy rain, which started late yesterday, and thick fog made flying difficult all last night and when the fog failed to lift this morning the fliers came down with gasoline tanks almost empty.

Wire Attacking Senator Ashurst Barred in Congress

Washington, October 11.—(P)—An attempted by Senator Watson, of Indiana, republican leader, to have read in the senate today a telegram from the executive committee of America's wage earners' protective conference, protesting a speech made in the senate by Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, was blocked today by Senator Robinson, the democratic leader.

Senator Robinson heatedly denounced the reading of a telegram attacking a member of the senate.

Watson started to withdraw the telegram, which had been addressed to Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, but before he could do so Robinson asked that it be expunged from the record.

There was a chorus of ayes from the democratic side. Watson then explained that he wanted to withdraw the message, signed by Matthew Woll and other officers of the association, if it was regarded as an attack upon Senator Ashurst.

'ON TO ATHENS' IS SLOGAN OF SPORTS-LOVING ATLANTANS

Local Society To Witness Georgia-Yale Game Today

"On to Athens" is today's slogan of thousands of sports-loving Atlantans, departing via motor and train for the Classic City to be spectators at the Georgia-Yale football game, to be played in Sanford stadium. The wearers of the red and black ribbons will bespeak their loyal support of dear old Georgia, while blue banners and streamers will denote the rooters for Old Eli. Football classics come and go, but today's game will also dedicate the vast stadium at the university, which will be ablaze with color and enthusiastic crowds, as the contest will mark one of the most auspicious events in football history. Three beautiful southerners—Misses Josephine Hollis, of Atlanta; Cynthia L. Engle, of Jacksonville, Fla.; and Penelope Cannon, of Concord, N. C., will grace the Yale box, having been chosen as sponsors to encourage the team to victory, marking the first time in the history of the university that mascots have ever been appointed. Numerous fetes are scheduled as a salutation to the great god, Gridiron, as luncheons will precede the game, while teas, dinners and dances will be arranged as a social aftermath in compliment to the visitors flocking to Athens.

Miss Greenaway Weds Mr. Word In New York

New York, October 11.—Miss Gladys Greenaway, daughter of Mr. Frances Greenaway, of Houston, Texas, who has been living with her sister, Mrs. Lester W. Coffin, of Rockville Centre, Long Island, was married to George Lafayette Word, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., Saturday afternoon, October 5, at the Little Church Around the Corner, New York city. The ceremony was performed at the high altar which was decorated with pink and white gladioli and tall white tapers. The "Lohengrin" and "Tannhauser" wedding marches were played, while during the ceremony strains of the "Londonderry Air" added to the beauty of the service.

The bride entered the church with her brother, William Roy Greenaway, of Jamaica, L. I., and wore a traveling suit of brown chiffon tweed with house of eggshell satin and hat of brown soleil felt. Her fur was fox and her flowers orchids and lilies of the valley. The bride's sister, Mrs. Lester W. Coffin, matron of honor, wore a Paton model of black velvet with a corsage of Ophelia roses. Miss Marjorie Ahrens, maid of honor, wore a costume of king's blue velvet with house of gold and white lame and corsage of Ophelia roses and valley lilies. The best man was Herman Glass, of Atlanta, Ga., and Buffalo, New York.

Immediately following the ceremony a special train took the bridal party and guests to Rockville Centre, where the wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's sister. Pink and white cosmos, snapdragons and gladioli filled the drawing room and the sun parlor where the wedding gifts were displayed. Green and white was the color motif in the dining room where the bride's table, covered with a rare lace cloth, carried vases of white snapdragons and valley lilies. The wedding cake, which formed the center decoration, was flanked with white candlesticks holding tall white candles. Green and white mints and hand-painted place cards completed the color arrangement.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George L. Word, Sr., and Mrs. J. N. Bateman, of Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Word and his bride left at midnight for Buffalo, N. Y., where they will reside at 245 Elmwood avenue.

Miss Levinson and Mr. Meyerhardt Wed at Home Ceremony, October 31

Plans for the wedding of Miss Regina Levinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Levinson, to David J. Meyerhardt, son of the late Judge and Mrs. Max Meyerhardt, of Rome, are of wide social interest. The marriage will be solemnized at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, October 31, at the home of the bride-elect's parents, 1307 West Peachtree street. Rabbi David Marx will perform the ceremony in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends. A note of sentiment is added to the service through the fact the bride-elect's engagement was announced on her own birthday, April 4, and the marriage ceremony will take place on the birthday of her mother.

Miss Levinson has chosen as her bridesmaid and only attendant her sister, Miss Paula Levinson. The best man will be Walter S. Nathan, of Brunswick. The bride-to-be will be given in marriage by her father, Mrs. Bertram Kaufmann, a sister of the groom-elect, will render an appropriate program of nuptial music. A buffet supper will follow the ceremony. After a wedding trip the young couple will make their home at 1307 West Peachtree street.

Miss Levinson is being entertained at a number of interesting pre-nuptial affairs.

Mrs. Bertram Kaufmann will entertain at tea at her home Saturday, October 19.

Miss Gladys Asher will entertain at bridge Tuesday evening, October 22, at her home in Briarcliff road in honor of Miss Levinson and Mr. Meyerhardt.

Mrs. Levinson, mother of the bride, will be hostess at the trousseau tea Saturday, October 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Samuels, uncle and aunt of the bride-elect, will honor Miss Levinson and Mr. Meyerhardt at a family dinner Sunday, October 27, at their home on Fourteenth street.

Miss Paula Levinson and Mrs. Hillman Fish, sisters of the bride-elect, will entertain 25 guests at an informal dinner Wednesday, October 30, immediately following the wedding rehearsal. Others who have entertained Miss Levinson are Mesdames Hillman Fish and A. Robert Hornik.

Col. and Mrs. Andrews To Give Dinner.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

FLIP FINDS A DOORWAY.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Who trusts in luck will seldom gain; To trust in it will prove in vain.

—Old Mother Nature.

Striped Chipmunk had lots of fun with Flip before Flip found out that Striped Chipmunk was simply fooling with him. Having Flip try to catch him was just a little excitement for Striped Chipmunk and he enjoyed it. However, there is nothing so about Flip. It took only one or two lessons to teach Flip that trying to catch Striped Chipmunk on the old stone wall was merely a waste of time. After that Striped Chipmunk could be as impatient as he pleased without arousing the least bit of interest on Flip's part.

Early one morning, however, Flip discovered Striped Chipmunk a long way from the old stone wall. That it was a long way for such a little fellow as Striped Chipmunk. He was over on the edge of the road in Farmer Brown's dooryard.

"This is the time I'll get that fellow!" thought Flip. "When I do, he'll be sorry. I'll teach him that he can't be so saucy and impudent to me and not pay for it."

Flip is, as you know, very quick. It is amazing how fast he can run for a short distance. He ran his very fastest now. Striped Chipmunk gave a startled jump and then, instead of making for the old stone wall as Flip expected him to, he scurried as fast as his little legs could take him along the edge of the driveway. Flip almost laughed aloud when he saw this. Never in all his life had he felt more sure of anything than he did of catching Striped Chipmunk now.

And then Striped Chipmunk disappeared. One instant there he was, scurrying just as fast as his legs could take him just ahead of Flip, and the very next instant there was no Striped Chipmunk. Flip was going so fast, in trying to stop, he almost turned a somersault. He had to stop because with Striped Chipmunk gone, there was nobody to chase. Such a sheepish look as there was on Flip's face as he turned and slowly made his way back toward the spot where he had last seen Striped Chipmunk. When he got there he looked all around as if round hole that went right straight down. It was on the very edge of the driveway. There was no sand scattered around it. There was nothing to show that it had been dug recently. There was just a little plain, round hole—that was all. Flip sniffed at it. There was the odor of Striped Chipmunk. He sniffed again to make sure. There was no doubt about it. Striped Chipmunk had gone down that hole. That hole was a doorway and Striped Chipmunk had popped through it.

"It's a lucky thing for him he found it!" thought Flip, as he dug with both feet and found that the driveway was too hard for him to make any impression on. "Yes, sir, it's a lucky thing that fellow found this hole! If he hadn't found it just when he did, I would have had him."

And then an odd look passed over Flip's face at a sudden thought. "I wonder," said he slowly, "if he knew that that hole was here all the time. I wonder if this is a doorway he has been in the habit of using."

Even then it didn't occur to Flip that Striped Chipmunk might have made that hole. No sir, this didn't enter Flip's head.

A NEW AND STYLISH MODEL.

FOR SLENDER FIGURES.

The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. To make the dress for a 16-year size will require 4 1/2 yards of 38-inch material. For jabot of contrasting material 1 1/2 yard is required 12 inches wide, cut lengthwise. To finish the dress with bias binding as pictured in the large view, will require 4 1/8 yards 1 1/2 inches wide. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plait fullness extended is 2 1/2 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our up-to-date Fall and Winter 1929-1930 Book of Fashions.

STATE MOVES RAPIDLY AGAINST PANTAGES

Theater Man's Press Agent Says Employer Tried to Influence His Testimony.

Los Angeles, October 11.—(AP)—The state's case against Alexander Pantages, theatrical multi-millionaire, charged with attacking 17-year-old Eunice Pringle, a dancer, began to move more rapidly today as examination of most of its principal witnesses was completed. Some of these corroborated statements that Pantages had attempted to influence testimony in the trial.

William J. Schellman, press agent for the accused, left in the records his assertions that his employer attempted to influence him and that he refused to yield to the influence.

A. L. Courtney, a police officer who appeared on the scene of the alleged attack in the Pantages theater building a few minutes after it is said to have occurred, substantiated other witnesses' testimony that he had heard Pantages accuse Eunice Pringle, co-ed dancer and alleged victim of his violence, of blackmail.

After asking three similar questions, the defense gained from Schellman in cross-examination an answer of "No, sir," to an inquiry of whether Pantages had told him what to tell the district attorney. The first two answers were "No, not a direct order," and "it was suggested." Later the state on re-direct examination obtained an admission from Schellman that Pantages had instructed him what to say if the district attorney asked him where the key to the "little room" scene of the alleged attack, was to be found.

Hidden Key.
"Did not Pantages tell you that you were to add knowledge of the hidden place of the key?"
"Yes, sir."
"What did he tell you that you were to know?"
"That it was in Walker's desk," Carl Walker was manager of the theater.

Courtney, testifying to the scene after the incident, was asked what Pantages had said.
"He said the girl was trying to blackmail and frame him," the policeman answered.
"What did she say?"
"She pointed a finger at Pantages. 'Don't let him talk like that about me. It's all untrue. I want justice.'"

The policeman added that "Pantages told him he wanted 'publicity' and the officer replied he 'could not help it if the newspapers got hold of it.'"

ASPIRING BIRDMAN MAKES BRIEF HOP IN ANTIQUE PLANE

Lawrence, Pa., October 11.—(United News.)—An airplane, constructed from pieces of antique furniture by a 24-year-old farm hand, who had never been in the air in his life, actually flew today for a distance of several hundred yards, then went into a spin and crashed from an altitude of 25 feet.

The pilot, Charles Shenk, crawled from the crumpled wreckage unhurt, but much abashed.

Shenk drew his own plans. He fashioned his propeller from a post of an old four-poster bed which tradition said came to America in the Mayflower, and as a result Shenk called his plane the Mayflower.

The landing gear was two wheels taken from a broken-down farm cultivator.

The motor was a second-hand, four-cylinder motorcycle engine.

The wing coverings were made of flour sacks, and the braces were metal parts from an old bed.

Florida's Governor Returns to Duties After Day of Illness

Tallahassee, Fla., October 11.—(AP)—Governor Doyle Carlton was back at his desk today after a slight indisposition which kept him confined to the executive mansion most of Thursday.

The chief executive, who was suffering from an attack of neuritis aggravated by a cold, looked after his correspondence today, saw numerous visitors, and during the afternoon participated in a meeting of the state board of pardons. The board is still trying to dispose of cases heard at its semi-annual session in September.

Taxes Paid.
Sparta, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—According to Tax Collector Lamar L. Stewart, of this county, the people are paying up their taxes this year earlier than usual and if present indications are carried out, a good portion of the taxes this year will be paid up by December 20, when the books close.

WILLIE EUBANKS WINS IN GEORGIA SPELLING CONTEST

Willie Florence Eubanks, of Fulton county, won the annual Georgia state spelling championship Friday afternoon at the Southeastern Fair. Miss Eubanks won a cash prize of $100 for her feat in spelling down all other competitors from 18 counties. Second place was won by Fred Oxford, and Arthur Corley, of Meriwether county, was third.

CROWDS ACCLAIM THREE GOVERNORS

heard above those of the crowd Governor Roosevelt expressed his pleasure at being at the fair.

"I am glad to get even this brief glimpse of the Southeastern Fair. This fair the Atlanta to the whole of the southeastern territory of which it is the clearing house."

"I am glad to see you and to be with you, even for these few minutes. And I thank you for the welcome you have given me."

"I have learned not to get a swelled head when I am welcomed so. This past summer, when I was traveling in rural New York, I was greeted by a similar gathering at one of the towns. Three or four hundred people were around the car."

"An old man turned the corner. 'What's all the fuss about,' he asked. 'It's Governor Roosevelt,' someone told him."

"Pshaw! I thought it was Lindbergh's only, to tell you the truth, he did not say 'pshaw'!"

Pleased to Attend.
"I regret sincerely that I am unable to go through the fair. It serves a useful purpose. As a part-time resident and citizen of Georgia I want to tell you that I am pleased to be here."

The New York executive was aided back into his car, a way was cleared, and the car swept onward.

The fair association also were hosts to another delegation Friday. The Georgia Press Association attended in force. Among them were Louis J. Morris, president, of the Hartwell Sun; B. H. Hardy, treasurer, of the Barnesville News-Gazette; Ernest Camp, past president, of the Walton Tribune of Monroe, and P. T. McCutcheon, past president, of the Franklin News and Banner.

Given Luncheon.
Approximately 125 members of the association were present. They were tendered a luncheon at the fair and attended through the exhibition buildings.

Governors Graves and Gardner visited the fair at 10 o'clock. The hour was set up, as Governor Hardman was leaving at 11 o'clock for Athens.

Only two states, Alabama and North Carolina, are better than Georgia, according to the respective governors of those states.

"We are going to have a busy time with two football games to attend, a big fair to visit, and a new athletic stadium down at Athens to dedicate," Governor Graves said.

"Last Saturday we dedicated a great new stadium at the University of Alabama. It is called Denny field and is one of the major stadiums of the south. The University of Alabama will play its home games there."

The Georgia-Yale game, Governor Graves said, placed him in a dilemma. "I am a Yale man and a guest of

Capital's Recent Crime Toll Brings Senate Investigation

Ugly Washington Killings Move Upper Chamber To Action

Washington, October 11.—(AP)—The senate today ordered an investigation into Washington police affairs as department of justice agents moved to exhume the body of Mrs. Virginia McPherson, bride of eight months, to determine whether a fractured skull instead of strangulation caused her death last month.

Meanwhile another spectacular violent death was added to the capital's recent total, and announcement was made that counsel had been retained for Dexter Churchill Dayton, formerly of Kansas City, who has admitted strangling 18-year-old Marjorie O'Donnell, of Pittsburgh.

Joseph Eugene Agan, 31, correspondent for a Paris newspaper, provided the latest death sensation today by leaping six floors from his apartment on fashionable Sixteenth street after slashing his throat and wrists with a razor blade and stabbing himself ten times over the heart with an ice pick.

Fracture Evidence Found.
Decision to attempt further examination of the body of Mrs. McPherson followed testimony by a physician that her body showed evidence of a skull fracture after it was found September 14 in her apartment. Special agents were immediately sent south to seek permission of state authorities to disinter the body from the family plot in China Grove, N. C. Department of justice investigators believed her father, A. H. Hurley, of Chester, S. C., would consent to the autopsy but word from there said that he was uncertain whether to consent.

Mrs. McPherson's death was first accepted as a suicide, but after one Washington policeman had flouted his "Georgia," he said, "I don't know what to do. I live the life I shall live. I am by rooting for the team that has the ball."

Governor Gardner expressed himself as pleased to get away from the troubles of the North Carolina executive office. "We have a lot of strikers up there and we would like to trade off some of them to some other state," he said.

Governor and Mrs. Bibb Graves were breakfast guests of Governor Hardman in the morning. Other guests included General and Mrs. Homer O. Parker, Colonel John C. Woodward, Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Lyons B. Joel, Lieut. Colonel C. H. Neisler, Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Frank T. Kidd, Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. H. A. Carrithers, Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. H. C. Couch.

LINDBERGH REST AT MIAMI HOTEL AFTER LONG TOUR
Miami, Fla., October 11.—(AP)—Delayed by inclement weather and fatigue, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh rested here today after completing a 9,000-mile inspection flight around the Caribbean sea, including a four-day aerial exploration of ancient Mayan ruins in Central America.

Although Colonel Lindbergh refused to divulge any information regarding his plans for a return flight northward, it was understood that he and his bride, the former Anne Morrow, who accompanied him on the lengthy trip, would leave in their private plane for Washington early tomorrow.

"My plans for my trip northward are entirely indefinite," Colonel Lindbergh said as he and his wife climbed into an automobile for a sight-seeing trip about the city this afternoon after spending the morning at their hotel.

"I do not care to say at this time when I will leave here or what my destination will be. My only statement is that I am going north."

It was believed that Colonel Lindbergh had planned to hop off from here this morning, but that weather conditions were inclement, and word was sent to the airport where his plane is housed, that he would not leave before tomorrow at the earliest.

THREE PACKAGES CONTAIN DEATH DEALING SECRETS
Hammond, La., October 11.—(AP)—Three suspicious looking packages in the mail here addressed to prosperous Italian farmers attracted the attention of postal authorities and after a cautious look-in they were found to contain infernal machines. The bombs had attached full appliances for ignition. The federal authorities immediately launched into a secret investigation to determine the sender.

EIGHT FARM BOARD MEN TO BE APPROVED

Committee Recommends Confirmation of Appointments to Farm Posts.

Washington, October 11.—(AP)—Confirmation of the eight appointed members of the federal farm board was recommended by the senate agriculture committee today and administration leaders predicted the entire board would be approved by the senate.

Five members of the board were approved unanimously, one vote was cast against Chairman Legge, and three against Carl Williams, of Oklahoma, and Sam R. McElvie, of Nebraska.

Seventeen of the 19 senators on the committee voted.

Senators Wheeler, of Montana; Caraway, of Arkansas; C. Stone, of South Carolina, all democrats, voted against McElvie. The three voting against Williams were Senators Smith, Wheeler and Heflin, democrats, Alabama.

Although it was reported Senator Wheeler had cast the only ballot against Chairman Legge, the Montanan declined to comment. He said, however, he did not intend to attempt formulation of an organized movement against Legge on the senate floor.

Members.
The board members approved unanimously, the crop they represent and their terms, were: J. C. Stone, of Kentucky, tobacco, five years; Charles S. Wilson, of New York, miscellaneous agriculture, four years; C. B. Denton, of Missouri, live stock, three years; William F. Schilling, of Minnesota, dairying, two years, and C. C. Teague, of California, fruits and vegetables, one year.

Chairman Legge also has been designated for a one-year term. McElvie was appointed for two years and Williams for the only six-year term available at this time. Hereafter, all board members will be named for six-year terms.

Senator Smith, who has objected strenuously to Williams, said he had made no effort to organize opposition to the Oklahoma in the committee and did not intend to do so in the senate.

Senator Heflin said he voted against Williams because he did not regard his knowledge of cotton conditions as comprehensive.

"All Williams knows about cotton he has obtained from Oklahoma, and Oklahoma is not a typical cotton state," he said.

Senator Wheeler announced he would carry his opposition to McElvie to the floor. He said he did not consider the Nebraska qualified and asserted he would divulge information intended to substantiate his viewpoint.

TWO YEARS GIVEN TO LUTHER GLOER IN NARCOTIC CASE

Pleading guilty to a charge of possession and selling narcotics, Luther Gloer, of Atlanta, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Judge Samuel Sibley in federal court Friday morning.

Gloer had served three sentences in the penitentiary on narcotic charges, and one term of two years for burglary. He told Judge Sibley that he had made numerous futile efforts to break his habit.

The remainder of the day's session in court was devoted to disposal of liquor cases. Among those who faced Judge Sibley for prohibition law violations were two women, Mrs. Hattie Brown, Mrs. Lottie Terrell.

Mrs. Brown told the court that she was forced to resort to liquor selling to support her crippled daughter and a small son, who is in school. Mrs. Terrell made a similar plea, declaring that six children were dependent solely upon her for support.

Mrs. Brown was given a sentence of six months and Mrs. Terrell was sentenced to serve a year and a day.

KIDNAPING IS LAID TO NEGRO YOUTHS

Americus, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Kidnaping is charged against Leonard Champion and Robert Small, negro youths held in jail at Americus. It is alleged the boys kidnaped Lony Ruth Whitehead, a young negro girl, and that she was carried from Americus to Lee county, where she entered into an illegal marriage contract with Champion.

Catarrh is Serious Handicap on Victim

Find a man, woman or child who is afflicted with catarrh of the nose and its connecting air passages and you will always find a patient who is most susceptible to more serious diseases. Why? Science explains that Catarrh interferes with natural breathing thus preventing proper purification of the blood by the lungs and also prevents restful sleep. Catarrh is a constant drain upon the nutrition of the body, making the patient weak and thereby susceptible to diseases such as head and chest colds.

Your physician will tell you that catarrh is a local condition, not a systemic disease. You must fight it constantly with a local remedy that reaches the spot. Of the many remedies that have been tested by Nose and Throat Specialists to relieve the irritation and reduce the congestion

Texas Orders Four Quarts Delivered C.O.D.

Monroe, La., October 11.—(AP)—There's a man in Texas who doesn't know the country has gone dry. He sent an order in today's mail to the old mail order house of J. E. Covington, P. O. Box 669, Monroe, for four quarts of Murray Hill Club at $9 to be delivered C.O.D. Since Mr. Covington is dead and his firm went out of business July 1, 1919, the "order" was turned over to Albert Horuff, vice president of the Central Savings Bank & Trust Company, who years ago was associated with the Covington firm.

Coffee Weed Bean Blamed for Death Of Florida Child

Jacksonville, Fla., October 11.—(AP) Poison from beans of the coffee weed was believed by physicians today to be responsible for the death of 3-year-old Peggy Dolores York, and the serious illness of her sister, Gloria, 5, and her brother, Gene, 1 year old.

At a local hospital it was stated that the three children had eaten the beans from the common weed several weeks ago. Gloria was said to have eaten 20, while her brother and sister ate fewer. The trio became ill shortly afterward. Peggy was taken to the hospital where she died last night.

Attending physicians have sent samples of the beans found in the yard of the York home to the state botanical laboratories, Tallahassee, for examination.

BC Stops Headaches in 3 minutes

When one of those sick, raging, nervous headaches come, and you want relief in three minutes, go to your druggist and ask for a package of "B-C," a wonderful new prescription, that is guaranteed safe and speedy, with no depression or bad after effects.

"B-C" relieves any headache, sciatic or neuralgic pain, because it contains several ingredients that function together for the relief of pain, regardless of its origin. The "B-C" formula is one of the most important medical discoveries of recent years, accomplishing as it does, in a few minutes, what no other one-drug preparation can do under one or two hours.

"B-C" is sold and guaranteed by all druggists in 10c and 25c packages.

IMPORTANT YOUR CAR SHOULD BE PREPARED FOR WINTER DRIVING

FOLLOW THESE PRECAUTIONS

- 1 Use a free-flowing winter grade of oil in the crankcase. Be sure that the differential and transmission have proper cold-weather lubricants.
- 2 Have spark plugs, ignition cables and battery inspected. Cold gasoline needs a hot spark.
- 3 Inspect the fan, thermostat and winter front.
- 4 Clean the cooling system. See that all old scale and rust, accumulated over a summer's driving, are thoroughly flushed out.
- 5 Be sure the cooling system is tight, without the slightest leak anywhere—in hose connections, pump, radiator or gaskets.
- 6 Add water and one supply of Eveready Prestone and your car will go through the hardest winter season in perfect safety.
- 7 Go to your garageman. For a small sum he will be glad to render this cleaning and tightening service. It is an investment worth many times its small cost.

Eveready Prestone, the perfect anti-freeze, does not contain alcohol or glycerine. It will not overheat the motor if the weather turns warm. It is a pure, undiluted product. Its permanent protection makes it a most economical investment. One supply lasts all winter, through any amount of warm and cold weather driving.

that urge for another yard in his legs.

COVER STUMPY.
But the Tarheels were waiting for the mite. He had little interference. His line leaked and leaked and no amount of substituting seemed to plug up the holes.

Thomson was covered better yesterday than he has ever been covered. On returning punts he was a wizard who could not be halted or confined within the space of 10 yards. But on running plays he was thrown for losses or held for small gains. The Tarheels watched him like so many hawks.

Warner Mizell was spotted, too. They were on him at every turn. He could not gain but he could stick that toe under that football. He did it time after time, two of his punts going for more than 70 yards. Only the toe of the gallant halfback stood between Tech and terrible disaster. And he kept it there all afternoon like a boxer sticking his left in a foe's face. Not a one was blocked, not a one was short.

GREAT AVERAGE.
Warner Mizell averaged 41.2 yards in 11 punts—the greatest exhibition of punting since the old Vanderbilt game years ago, when Doug Wycoff and Tommy Ryan engaged in a duel that found two punters averaging near 50 yards.

Georgia Tech found well and hard. But their tools were not sharp enough. They were fighting as individuals. North Carolina was in better contributed to a large extent to the downfall of the 1928 champions. But there were other factors.

Tech's aim was awry. Their tackling was not at all sure. Time after time they let the Tarheel backs speed by unchecked by reaching arms. The Wycoff and Tommy Ryan engaged in a duel that found two punters averaging near 50 yards.

CRUEL JESTS.
There were a lot of cruel jests in the game. It was as if a grinning fate were tossing hot cakes in a window before 25,000 people and the hot cakes were the football teams that played yesterday.

He placed success but a few yards away from one and then jerked it away. A fumble gave the Jackets the ball just 10 yards from the North Carolina goal line early in the game. They ran it to the 6-yard line and were on their way to a score when Earl Dunlap slipped and fell in the mud. Thomson's attempt at a place kick was wide by inches.

TURNING POINT.
It was the loss of Tom Jones which marked the turning point in the game. Jones, fearful and indignant, was removed from the game when an official declared he had lost his footing. Jones protested that he was trying to get past the man and had shoved him.

He was removed from the game and a defense that had forced the Tarheel punt found itself deep in its own territory after the penalty of half the distance. It was an upset team and it never got together again.

Jones' substitutes at end tried hard but they were never able to break up plays as was Jones. Much of the gain made was around Jones' end. When he went out the only reliable passer-receiver was gone. The loss of his playing and the loss of the ball and the distance was an irreparable injury which struck deep at Tech hopes.

If the final analysis the Tarheels would have beaten Tech with the line if nothing else. The line was led by

West Stands in Gloom As Tech Finally Falls

Tarheels Earn Spectacular Victory—East Sections Go Wild.

By Ed Danforth.

Down in the shadows of an early dusk fluttered the gridiron ensign of Georgia Tech yesterday after it had fluttered at the block for two rippings, tearing campaigns of Southern Conference football.

Early young hands from North Carolina hauled the pennant to the browning turf that had strutted in the breeze through fifteen consecutive games. The count was three touchdowns to one, 18 to 7. Convincing enough.

Sickening disappointment clutched hearts in the west stand as the third quarter wore on and the invader held grimly to his early advantage. In the west stand sat the alumni of Georgia Tech and parents of the players. The sickening autumn day became a mockery of garish splendor that paled into unwhisked shadows as their yellow Jackets plunged and passed in vain.

Not at the half when the well-knit Tarheels held their 18-7 advantage did the Tech section believe that defeat was lurking just around the face of the stop-watch. Stumpy and Mizell would get going yet, they said. But on Saturday, through an agonizing third quarter and a penitential final quarter in silence.

EAST HILARIOUS.
All was hilarity in the east stands where were massed the student forces and the alumni groups of the old North State. They raised the welkin in several inches by their yipping and their jubilation.

For them it was the end of a long, long road—the coveted triumph of years of disappointment. Beating Georgia Tech has been the goal of the football team, three the years at least since the chubb-faced "chuck" Collins came from Notre Dame to Chapel Hill to teach the gangling boys how to play football.

The glittering, redolent promised land had been reached. It was their day to howl. Their football team, opportunists to the core, was on hand and turned up to perfect pitch on a day that that Georgia Tech could not

GATORS FLASH POWER TO BEAT AUBURN, 19-0

Crabtree Dashes 31 Yards To Score First Touchdown.

By Herb Clark
Constitution Special Correspondent.
Montgomery, Ala., October 11.—(Special.)—Florida's bounding backfield battalion ran to a 19-0 victory over the fighting Tigers of Auburn under the floodlights of Cramton bowl here tonight.

The "Gators" amused their points on three sharp drives, one each in the first, second and third quarters, and gave indication of a strength which could have scored at will. A 15-yard penalty cost the "Gators" a score a few plays after the game started as a long march was slowed at the Tiger 10-yard line, but the Florida line proved too much for the Auburn forwards, and another "Gator" drive was soon under way. It succeeded where its predecessor had failed.

"Cannon Ball" Clyde Crabtree did the damage with a twisting 31-yard dash across the line after Bethea had traveled 20 yards on a punt return. Crabtree's kick for the extra point was good. All of Florida united to score the second time. It was bang, bang, with all the "Gator" artillery trained on the 60-yard distant double stripe.

CRABTREE DASHES.
Crabtree's 32-yard dash was the longest individual run of the drive which was climaxed by a pass. Bethea to Van Sickle, which went 10 yards to the tack. The try for the point failed. His time as Tiger forwards sifted through.

McEwen went back in at quarterback and started a pass attack mixed with a line drive. A 10-yard pass to Crabtree called the touchdown play on a pass which went to the arms of Nolen, a substitute tackle. Crabtree carried it some 10 yards and rolled the remaining five to the third tally. Crabtree again attempted the extra point and was again wide of the mark.

"ENEMY" GLOATS.
Elsewhere in the east stand were alumni from other colleges, rivals of Georgia Tech, who had been forced for at least a year and a half to see a golden-shirted horde ride over their pet elephants.

When not actually bursting into cheers they were placid, contented, wistful expressions. To say that they shed tears over the execution of the old Gold-Robbed King would be mendacious. What men say is that joy, buoyant joy, filled the great stadium save in the frozen west stands and on the Tech bench. "The king is dead... to him with the king."

FOREWARNED.
For weeks the daily press had been warning one and all about the power of this North Carolina football team. Gentlemen who write for the sports sections visited North Carolina in training and wrote the first storm warnings back to their papers.

The Tarheels were listed in the first five or six of the conference. Some even placed the Tarheels in a preferred class with Clemson and Tulane as teams most likely to come through and win all their games. One of the latter was your correspondent.

As the execution day neared, every scout who saw the Tarheels sent back reports of their strength and accounted the menace to Tech's supremacy. The sports authorities shook their fingers loose in issuing solemn bulletins that

Yale Wins On Club Card
Ted Oetter won a four-round decision over Tom Wallace Friday night at the Atlanta Athletic Club in the first of a series of bi-monthly amateur boxing bouts, sponsored by the Athletic Club. Oetter weighed 152 pounds and Wallace 150. The bout was scheduled to go only three rounds, but a difference of opinion between the judges prompted Jake Abel, referee, to have another round. Oetter had the better of the last two rounds.

The boxing program was started some time ago by the Athletic Club and Mike Chambers, Georgia Tech trainer, has been secured as coach of the boxers. Workouts are held every night at 6:30 o'clock for one hour, and every amateur boxer in the city who desires to learn more about boxing is urged to take advantage of the opportunity.

BIG TEN OPENS.
In the middle west the Big Ten series swing into action after a brief hiatus of a few days. Eight of the ten will mix it up among themselves with Wisconsin meeting Northwestern at Madison, Purdue entertaining Michigan, Indiana visiting Chicago and Iowa invading Ohio State.

On the Pacific coast where conference strife likewise will be on in full swing, Howard Jones' Southern California steam-roller will be matched against the University of Washington Huskies with the powerful team from the Golden Gate heavily favored.

Georgia-Yale encounter overshadows even the conference games in the southern sector, but the showing of Tennessee against an invading Mississippi outfit at Knoxville will command a big share of interest below the Mason-Dixon line.

HARVARD RESTS.
Like some of the other eastern teams, Harvard will devote another Saturday to polishing up its attack against a minor opponent, facing New Hampshire. Princeton, having made a slow and unimpressive start, expects plenty of trouble with Brown, a team that was beaten by Springfield in its first game of the season.

Pittsburgh's clashing Panthers are heavily favored over West Virginia in one of the day's games involving a traditional rivalry. Such teams as Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth and Army apparently have little to fear at the hands of small college opposition.

Rollins To Play A.M. Team Today
Winter Park, Fla., October 11.—(AP) Twenty members of the Rollins college football squad left here today for Tifton, Ga., where they will tackle the South Georgia A. & M. college eleven in the second battle of the season for both teams.

With a victory last Monday over the South Georgia State college—the first Rollins triumph in two years—Coach Jack McDowell is hopeful that his charges will repeat and hang up their second win in a week.

Alabama Ready For Moccasins
University, Ala., October 11.—Alabama wound up its practice for the Chattanooga game here today for the first time in several days. The team was really raring today and gave indications of being more powerful than ever.

GRID TEAMS SWING INTO TOUGH GAMES

Football Reaches Big Game Stage—Interest Runs High.

By Ted Vosburgh.
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)
New York, October 11.—(AP)—With a flock of important intersectional tilts heading the program, the college football season reaches the stage of big games, big excitement and big gates tomorrow.

From Baltimore, where the rollicking ramblers of Notre Dame undertake to repeat their victory of last year over Uncle Sam's Mississippians, to Seattle, where the mighty University of Southern California machine meets the huskies of Washington, the fans should find plenty to shout about.

Sharing major intersectional interest with the colorful conflict between the Redskins and the men of Rockne at Minneapolis, there are other promising duals between standard-bearers of rival sections such as Colgate and Michigan State, Georgetown-St. Louis and Penn-Virginia Polytechnic Institute, but these are the main headlines.

Parking Space for 7,000 Autos Prepared on College Campus.
Provisions have been made to care for 7,000 automobiles at Athens today when the motor caravan is expected to descend on the city for the Yale-Georgia game.

Charley Martin, assistant chairman of athletics, has arranged a parking lot on the campus which will accommodate all the cars which will arrive. Traffic will be handled under the supervision of Major A. T. Colley and other officers of the United States army who are on duty at the university.

Various streets have been designated for use of traffic entering the city. The parking will be so arranged that they can get away easily. Thousands will go by special train, but thousands will stick to their cars. The roads are being put in shape by the highway department.

Definite plans have been made to handle the crowd efficiently, and it is not likely there will be any more inconvenience than is usually met with at any large gathering.

Cedartown Fights Tallapoosa To Tie
Cedartown, October 11.—The Cedartown high school football team and the Tallapoosa team played best for scoreless tie here today. Dickerson got away early in the game, but fumbled on the goal line and failed to score.

Stewart and Knighton played good games in the line for Cedartown, while Davis did good work in the backfield. Buttman played best for Tallapoosa and is the main reason Tallapoosa is boasting an undefeated team after having played Bowdon, Marietta and Cedartown High.

Three Offers.
Three major league ball clubs have made overtures to Henry Kistler, Duke university football captain and baseball star.

they always had imagined it from story books.
Not all is lavender and old lace and polished mahogany and gray-haired family negroes.

Athens businessmen with vigor and thoroughness have gone about getting the big throng into and out of the city expeditiously and feeding the hungry. Restaurants and lunch stands have been erected; taxi fleets tripled; and systematic arrangements made for parking automobiles and directing traffic toward the big stadium. The city, for all its ante-bellum background, has gone about this gridiron invasion as if it were handling crowds all its life.

23 Special Trains.
By mid-morning, special trains—23 of them—will begin arriving from Atlanta over three railroads. Athens hotels are filled with Yale visitors and special guests of the University of Georgia, so most of the 35,000 who have come from a distance are quartered in Atlanta hotels. Most of the crowd will come by train, a commentary, on the state of Georgia roads. The ideal in highway development has not yet been attained.

Yale's football team opened the season last Saturday by defeating University of Vermont, 89 to 0. Their sensational sophomore back, Albie Booth, a slim, shifty speed marvel, sped up and down the field, long gains and touchdowns. Yale hopes he can do the same tomorrow—and Georgia swears he won't.

While no mortar has been made of it, Yale has a great rush line, every man of which won the "Y" last year. The outstanding figure should be Captain Firpo Greene, the left guard. Georgia's debutants team lost the opening game to Oglethorpe, before they had become fairly organized. A week later the young Bulldogs got together and led by the swift-stepping Armin Waugh, a former Tech High School star, defeated Furman University by a convincing score.

Captain Joe Boland, another Atlanta High School product, will play at center in the midst of an improving rush line, according to developments in scrimmage this week. They are ready to battle Yale's flashy attack to the end of the game, using a few holes for their own gallopers.

Clemson Routes Wolfpack, 26-0
Florence, S. C., October 11.—(AP)—Clemson College's Tigers today turned the annual gridiron classic of the Pee Dee fair into a rout to Tech High School State college, 26 to 0, in a game of spotty football.

A strong wind swept the field during the game, making it difficult for the backs to hold the ball. Fumbles were frequent. Johnny Justus, Tiger back, ripped off several long runs and was the outstanding man in the Clemson offense, although the honor of scoring the touchdowns went to Welch, Woodruff, McMillan and Harvin. McCarty, regular Clemson fullback, was held out of the game with injuries.

Today's victory was the second consecutive triumph for Clemson over a Southern conference foe. The Tigers defeated Auburn last Saturday.

Mississippi Holds Howard to 0-0 Tie
Clinton, Miss., October 11.—(AP)—In the face of odds favoring their opponents, the Mississippi college football aggregation received a boost today by holding Howard college, of Birmingham, to a scoreless tie.

In the third quarter the Choctaws got red-hot and scored the ball yard within the shadow of their own goal. Very intercepted for Howard, and by thrusts the Alabamians went almost to the Mississippi goal, being halted by an offside penalty. A pass a moment later dropped incomplete in the end zone.

At the close Howard was threatening with passes, but had their receivers so closely covered by Mississippians that they were prevented from scoring.

Madison Wins.
Madison, Ga., October 11.—(Special)—Madison Aggies defeated Southern Georgia college, of Douglasville, 13 to 6, here in a fast and exciting game this afternoon. A feature of the game was an atrocious forward pass in the second quarter. It was the second victory of the season for Coach Butte's eleven.

Troublesome Base On Balls Cleared Path for Cubs' First Victory

PASS TO BUSH IN 6TH INNING BEGAN TROUBLE

Placing of Pitcher on Base Began Scoring for Chicago Team.

By George Moriarty.
Big League Umpire.
(Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)
Shibe Park, Philadelphia, October 11.—The usually troublesome base on balls cleared the path for the Cubs' first victory. Since the advent of professional baseball, free transportation to first base has been the bane of all managers and players.

An error or a hit does not disturb the tranquility of a team, but a losing outfit will not recognize the gratis gift to a batsman as just part of the game.

This is no attempt to discredit the Cubs. Guy Bush pitched a very steady game with a terrific burden on his shoulders. If he had failed patently in spots the Macks could have driven him to cover, but he bobbed back each succeeding inning and dodged disaster till the win was put safely under lock and key. Strangely enough, this same Guy Bush appeared in the vital role with a bat in his hands at the start of the sixth inning.

Ordinarily, a poor hitting pitcher is brushed out of the way easily, but Bush worked the count down to two and three, and then he failed to swing at a fourth fast one.

DYKES' ERROR.
McMillan then fouled out, trying to bunt, but the expected trouble was brewing. English, the next Cub batsman, squibbed a slow grounder down toward Jimmy Dykes. The latter tried to field it on the infield grass, and on a great effort to scoop up the grounder and blot out English. Victory and defeat were wrapped up in those two incidents, as the Macks blasted a single which counted Bush. Cuyler then broke into the line, hitting by tapping a single through the box which allowed two more and put the game on ice.

Guy Bush was favored with a few breaks that were tremendously valuable. He probably did his best pitching in the third after English batted an easy change which filled the bases. The dangerous Fox was up with two out, but he pitched safely to Fox and got by.

I think the Cubs got a wonderful break in the ninth inning. The tail end of the batting order was up. Manager Mack sent in a pinch hitter, Summa, for Earnshaw. Here Bush rose to his best and whiffed Summa. Then the Chicago pitcher faced the top of the batting order in a confident mood, knowing that Cochrane, Simmons and Fox would be on their way to the dressing room if he could dispose of Bishop and Haas, which he did.

GOOD PITCHING.
Earnshaw and Bush both turned in worth-while performances. Many thought Earnshaw was eager to get into shadow Elmer's record, and in so doing gave Bush that fatal pass. I do not think so. Earnshaw pitched with every ounce of energy, which is his natural style. Bush was first to face him in the sixth, and there was nothing for Earnshaw to do but burn his stuff over the plate to him. Temporary loss of control was his trouble.

Joe McCarthy showed an abiding faith in his ball club by sticking to the batting order and the championship for him. Following the failure of Hornsby and Cuyler to hit in the first two games, many other leaders in McCarthy's shoes would have turned to tap their resources by a revision of the line-up. Neither can the close observers say that the Cubs' boss has committed any managerial mistakes. Rather he has squeezed the maximum out of every possible circumstance.

By pitching Bush in the third game, he has possibly held back the Spartan-geared Roy who hurled so nobly on the opening day.

I believe I can put my finger on the cause for the unusual number of strikeouts that have resulted so far in the series. First, recall that Earnshaw sent ten more Cubs back to the bench for the reluctant drink of water.

SOILED BASEBALLS.
In this series the American league pitchers are using baseballs which are soiled by the umpires prior to each game. During the regular season, American league boxmen were obliged to pitch soiled white balls to a cleverer quality. Undoubtedly, the balls

The Steal That Failed

Associated Press telephoto from Philadelphia shows the trick play in the second inning of the third world series game Friday that cut off what appeared to be a run for the Athletics.

Earnshaw, Philadelphia pitcher was at bat and the umpire called a third strike on him, retiring the side an instant before Dykes' shoes touched the plate in what would have been a safe steal.

bleachers failed to have anything like a full house of customers willing to pay for a long view.

The disappointingly small turnout witnessed a ball game that also fell considerably short of the best world series standards, a pitchers' tussle for the most part between Bush and Earnshaw, starting his second straight game as Cochrane again handed a jolt to the experts.

COLORLESS CONTEST.
It was a contest of unusual breaks, colorless and uninspiring for the most part to the experts as well as to the home crowd.

The Cubs won because they cashed in on their one big opportunity, where Kiki Cuyler, with two out, two on base and the count two strikes and three balls, bounced the deciding hit over second base. It was a long time coming but Cuyler, for the day at least, shared the winning laurels with Bush as he turned in his first world's series feat of consequence since he drove over the winning run in Pittsburgh in the final game of the 1925 series against Walter Johnson.

Rolling in the sixth, after the A's had blown themselves to a one-run lead in the fifth, The Cub pitcher got a walk, which was overexposed to strike out his rival, McMillan fouled out weakly but Elwood English was safe at first when Jimmy Dykes overran and fumbled his dribbling roller down the third base line.

Hornsby fanned twice previously, taking the third strike each time with the bat on his shoulder when he came to bat in the pinch. He had been razed unmercifully by the A's stuff over the plate to him. Temporary loss of control was his trouble.

Joe McCarthy showed an abiding faith in his ball club by sticking to the batting order and the championship for him. Following the failure of Hornsby and Cuyler to hit in the first two games, many other leaders in McCarthy's shoes would have turned to tap their resources by a revision of the line-up. ## SWEDE FAVORED IN RACE TODAY

Famous Pilot Makes Best Time of Week in Trial.

Sig Haugdahl, George Lyons and "Swede" Anderson were honored speedsters at the Southeastern Fair auto races Friday afternoon in the second of a three-day race meet which will be concluded this afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

BUSH COMES BACK.
In the sixth, eighth and ninth, the A's went out in one-two-three order. It was a great comeback for Bush. The 26-year-old Mississippian, who pitched his best game since he was burning up the national league around mid-season, Bush had faltered after being the star of the Cubs corps up to August and his two innings against the A's as a relief man last Tuesday he was not particularly impressive, but he was a puzzle in the pinches today for the maulers of Mack.

Nevertheless, the Cubs were fortunate to win. But for Dykes' error, anxiety and error on English's roller, the Cubs would have been held to only one run in the sixth, for there was one out then and Hornsby's hit, scoring Bush, was followed by what would have been the third out with perfect defensive work.

This as the first time the great strategy house of Mack went awry. Somewhere the signals must have been mixed, for the count was 2 and 2 when Dykes started home and the fact that Bush's toss was a strike deflected the spectacular maneuver. As a matter of fact, it was probably the turning point of the game, for he blocked off a promising Mack rally, engaged the Cubs and gave them only one run to the sixth.

Hornsby was so emboldened by his belated success against Earnshaw, who had fanned him twice previously, that he batted with five successive safe blows behind him but the best he could do was ground to second where he was caught by a throw from the shortstop.

WILSON WALKS.
Wilson walked and Cuyler had another chance to come through but evidently he considered his day's work sufficiently done, for he grounded out to second. Stephen opened the ninth with a two-base blow down the left field foul line but the next three batters failed to advance him a single notch.

Cuyler earned what few fielding honors there were for the day by a great running stop and quick throw to second base that held Elmer Haas to a single on his sharp drive in the third inning. As the bases subsequently were filled, this play was important in keeping the Macks from scoring.

The gate receipts for the third game were as disappointing as the outcome. The paid admissions of 14,000, which was considerably less than 20,000 below the count for either game at Wrigley field and the receipts of $140,915 fell more than $55,000 short of yesterday's figure at Chicago.

BUSH CREDITED WITH FINE GAME BY AL SIMMONS

Says Crafty Righthander Had Necessary Stuff in the Pinches.

By Al Simmons, Athletics Outfielder.
(Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)
Shibe Park, Philadelphia, October 11.—I am going to start right off by saying that the Athletics looked bad today when the Cubs beat us by 3 to 1 in the third game of the world series. And nobody on my club looked worse than I did.

Guy Bush pitched a great game. We outthrew the enemy, but the clever Chicago right-hander threw up stuff that had us missing out in the clinches. That is the secret of real pitching.

The A's should have put the game in the work column in the early innings when we had two out on bases and again three on bases. But the hit that might have taken the heart out of Bush was not forthcoming.

I feel I must write that my own failure to hit with men on bases was one of the reasons for our defeat. It so happened there were men on the bases each of the four times I had a chance at the plate.

BURNED UP.
The flop that burned me up was when I came up in the third inning with Haas on second and Cochrane on first and I lifted a high infield fly for McMillan to smother. I don't mind telling you I would have given quite a bit of my work to some check to hit one into the bleachers in that situation.

However, I didn't hit one safe in any of my four tries. And that's what Jimmy Fox, who had hit so hard and timely in Chicago, also was stopped dead by Bush. That lanky Chicago curver was throwing up stuff that was hard to see. And I mean that as a compliment to Bush, rather than as an alibi for my club.

George Earnshaw pitched the kind of ball that would have won for him nine times out of ten. I learned after the game that our giant curver allowed only six hits in the three innings, were added to a pass and error to give the Cubs their three unearned tallies in the sixth.

DYKES NOT BLAMED.
I want it to be known that I don't blame Jimmy Dykes for the loss of the game. His error was excusable. I was behind him and I can see that the lazy bouncer hit to him by English was tricky. It is the seemingly soft grounders that nearly always give infielders the most trouble.

Then, to make matters worse, Hornsby punched a single between third and short. Rogers is played for a rightfielder, which he ordinarily is, so Boley had no chance to stop a grounder that may have seemed to the fans to be over his position.

Cuyler bounced a ball over Earnshaw's head for the second hit of the inning. That was a real hit, as was Hornsby's. I am not complaining to you, but I think it may say that they were tough breaks for Earnshaw, as they followed a pass and an error.

GOES TO WORK.
But George tightened his belt and went to work. Cuyler and Stephenson bounced infield grounders for a stop a grounder that may have seemed to the fans to be over his position.

Cuyler bounced a ball over Earnshaw's head for the second hit of the inning. That was a real hit, as was Hornsby's. I am not complaining to you, but I think it may say that they were tough breaks for Earnshaw, as they followed a pass and an error.

HOPES FOR WIN.
What I do hope for is a win tomorrow and another on Monday. I don't want to take a long ride back to Chicago. My home is near the Cubs' orchard but I want to "close my books" for Philadelphia before I go to Milwaukee for the final game.

I am not picking pitchers in this series. So I won't do any guessing. But whether it is Grover, Quinn, Walberg or Rummel for the A's tomorrow, I think we'll have a bunch that will do some hitting in the clinches, the way we did in Chicago in the two games we won.

SUMMARIES.
First game, first: George Lyons, Duaneberg Special, second: Bendito De Paulo, Remo for time.
Second game, first: George Lyons, Duaneberg Special, second: Bendito De Paulo, Remo for time.
Third game, first: George Lyons, Duaneberg Special, second: Bendito De Paulo, Remo for time.

ATHENS DOWNS SAVANNAH, 13-6
Athens, Ga., October 11.—The Savannah High Blue Jocks were defeated on Old Sanford field this afternoon by the Athens High eleven, to the tune of 13 to 6. As the game ended Savannah had the ball. Athens' 5-yard line, after advancing it steadily down the field.

The game drew a crowd estimated at 1,000, which was considerably less than that expected, due probably to the tardiness of the Yale special, which many fans greeted in preference to attending the game.

Immediately after the special arrived, however, the Yale band marched through the streets of the city to the football field and arrived in time to play on the field between the halves.

Savannah will be guests of Athens at the Yale-Georgia game tomorrow afternoon.

World Series Affairs In Terrible Tangle

Pegler Says Crowd Scant and Silent; Police Department Gets Traffic in Horrible Jam.

By Westbrook Pegler.
Philadelphia, Penn., October 11.—The state of affairs in the world series changed abruptly this evening. The Athletics lost, 3 to 1, in the presence of a scant crowd.

The traffic arrangement broke down as on the great occasion of the Tunney-Dempsey prize fight in the Sesqui-centennial stadium and to put one and all in a holiday mood, the mechanical voice of the huge broadcasting funnels in center field interrupted the proceedings twice to demand silence and bawl the news of death in the family to customers sitting somewhere in the park.

All at all, a certain cheery note, was absent by the occasion and the 29,000 customers, a crowd marked down from anticipations of 35,000, watched the boys play ball in melancholy silence. Of course, there were occasional yelps and there were always that murmur that a crowd sets up by its very breathing, but the principal note of the afternoon was the chirping of the telegraph instruments in the congested press coop, like insects chafing their legs together on a still night in the suburbs. Here, too, there was grumbling and discontent, for the literary junk dealers had brought in an unprecedented number of vicious authors, each one attended by his amanuensis, and the section was so crowded with ball players that the journalists were shoved into the aisles, complaining bitterly as they pecked at their typewriters balanced on their kneecaps.

It was not until the end of the ball game, however, that the customers experienced the full genius of the Philadelphia police in fouling traffic in the gathering of more than 500 people. The exit from the ball park was a 20-minute struggle through packed turns and alleyways and down winding stairs, with the throng pressing impatiently from behind and squashing those in front and when the dispersed patrons finally reached the street it was only to find that no omnibus, taxicab or private motor was permitted within accessible distance of the park and that the only rolling transportation was the Philadelphia surface cars, which stood fast, end, end, unable to get going. So the customers walked, some of them in files, past the lines of packed surface cars, congesting the sidewalks and taking to the streets until eventually the crowd thinned out and the police were able to get about things on wheels.

DIFFERENT.
Philadelphia is a city unlike any other on the American continent in this respect. Dump a convention of 500 hard-boiled gamblers and the machinery of the town strikes a dead center and refuses to budge, but I had not thought it possible to duplicate the stupendous jamming which was said to exist here, it is so possible to say definitely, but there are several possibilities. For one thing, among all sports promoters Philadelphia has always been known as a $3 town, and Tex Rickard amazed the entire sport industry the time he not only priced his best seats at $55 but kept the money.

The world series tickets were listed at $1, $5.50 and $6.00, but in order to buy the 3,000 bleacher seats priced at $1 it was necessary to spend many hours standing in line in the company of a queue of derelicts drenched up from the stews of the dock side who were holding the advanced places in the hope of selling them. The forward members of this picturesque group had been asking as much as $30 apiece for their places, but when they saw the same sense of values which prevails among the greatest number here, I doubt that any customer was willing to pay more than $5 for privilege of buying a $1 ticket to one world series game.

LITTLE MONEY.
Perhaps the common citizens of Philadelphia haven't much money to spend for pleasure. The Stoters, the Clothers, the Wannamakers and Biddies seem quite well off, but the world series is not a social festival in this part of the country and this town may resemble its strange neighbor, Baltimore, where the rich get richer but the wages are low.

Up until today the Athletics' third baseman, had played in fairly good luck, having a few occasions to goop for balls, his playing for James is one of the few survivors of Connie Mack's long years of trial, tribulation and elimination, but it now seems probable that he may have world series come too late in his career to find him fully efficient.

PROMINENCE.
He is burdened with a prominent abdomen and when he came in from his post on a poorly run in the Cubs half of the sixth inning to field a grounder from Elwood English, his billywagger obstructed his movements. He fumbled the ball, English was safe and in this critical moment, Rogers Hornsby at last began to perform after achieving the interesting record of six strikeouts in three games. He hit a single to left field, scoring Guy Bush from second and a few minutes later Cuyler drove a fly to center, scoring English and Hornsby.

But it would be intolerant to accuse the stout Mr. Dykes of instigating the whole mishap to the Athletics, for the socially prominent George Earnshaw, pitching for the second time in the series, had started the trouble by passing Bush. This Mr. Bush is a small, skinny party with an angular chin and an irritating manner of leaping and yelling at the fourth ball low and a hit outside. This put a runner on base who should have been a strikeout and when Dykes mishandled the bouncing grounder from English, Hornsby found two runners awaiting his hit.

Hornsby hit a double in the sixth inning and Hack Wilson, who had joined him in ignominy in the first game, uttered two hits himself, a triple and single. Simultaneously with this revival, the two most efficient hitters on the Philadelphia team, Jimmy Fox and Al Simmons, had a sharp relapse, going all afternoon without a hit between them, although they were always going up to the plate with runners on bases. Mickey Cochrane, the catcher with the fan-like ears, placed himself in circulation three times in the ball game, twice with singles and finally, in the seventh inning, on four balls, but neither Simmons nor Fox could do anything helpful and it was Bing Miller, the dark complexioned, half-bred Iowa athlete whom Howley calls Booker T. Miller, who singled in the fifth, setting Cochrane with the Athletics' only run.

'GOT A BREAK AND WON,' SAYS KIKI CUYLER

Cub Outfielder Feels Team Is Set for Victorious March.

By Hazen "Kiki" Cuyler, Chicago Cubs Outfielder.
Shibe Park, Philadelphia, October 11.—The break of the game came for the Cubs in the third battle of the world's series and we won it 3 to 1.

Things now look quite different. From the start the Cubs have felt they could beat the Athletics if they got an even break in luck. The break went to the Mackmen in the first game and started them off with a victory. They outplayed us in the second and won it. The break came to us in the third and we were the victors. Now it seems that it is up to us to outplay them and even win the series.

The break that helped us in that third game was in the sixth inning when Jimmy Dykes booted that bound hit by English. Bush was on first at the time, with one out. Had Dykes come up with that ball he probably would have thrown it away and there would have been no game.

BROUGHT RUNS.
As it was two men over on and still there was only one out. Then both Hornsby and myself were able to hit the ball to safe ground and it was three runs, which was one more than we needed, thanks to the great pitching by Bush.

The pitching of Bush restored all the confidence we had in our pitching staff before the series began. We have had two well-pitched games now out of three. Roth pitched a wonderful game in the opener, even though he lost it. Bush pitched a great one today. If we had done any kind of pinch hitting behind Roth, the Cubs would have had two victories and the A's would have only one.

Most of the time this year when we got a well-pitched game we won. During July and August when all our pitchers were going strong we simply romped away out in front of the pennant race.

Now we have Root and Blake and Bush all going well and there is every reason to expect that Malone will be in form the next time he starts. With those pitchers doing their stuff as they are capable of doing, it only is necessary for the rest of us to do our stuff with the bat and we'll win.

GETS TERRIBLE.
I must admit that I got a great thrill out of today's game in that sixth inning when I was able to deliver a hit in the pinch. Two were out, Hornsby had hit in Bush with the tying run and there was English on third and Hornsby on second, both having advanced when Wilson grounded out.

Earnshaw gave me a tough fight on that occasion. I fouled off some and managed to keep off the bad ones. I got the call of three and two and then when I saw I had hit one over second for a base hit that had driven in two runs I had my first big kick of the series.

Smithies Set for Battle With Strong Erie Eleven This Afternoon

T. H. S. SQUAD AFTER REVENGE FOR 1928 LOSS

Team Takes Short Workout on Field in Pennsylvania City.

Erie, Pa., October 11.—(Special).—With echoes of cheers from several thousand persons ringing in their ears after a hearty welcome, Coach Claude Tolbert's southern prep football champions from Tech High school, of Atlanta, went through a one-hour snappy signal drill and ran down under punts and passes this afternoon. It was the final preparation for the big game in Erie tomorrow between Tech High and Erie Academy.

Tech High's band accompanied the team here and all the band members were spectators at the Smithie workout Friday afternoon.

Erie is all set for the game and a crowd of 15,000 persons is expected to witness the game Saturday. Officials of Erie and local members of the reception committee from the city government are making extensive preparations for the game and for handling the crowd. Coach L. C. Drake, of Erie, has been priming his athletes for one of the hardest games of the local season. A long workout was held Friday afternoon and every member of the team seems to be in excellent shape and ready to go.

It will be a game for revenge and an edge in the first three. Tech High defeated the locals here two years ago and last year the Cadets went to Atlanta and brought back home the long end of a 6-to-0 victory.

Duke Changes Forward Wall

Durham, N. C., October 11.—Considerable remodeling is being done this week on the football machine of the Duke Blue Devils. And today, the backfield, finished with the coaches' return to the line. The changes made eliminate the shifts by which Captain Henry Kistler moved from defensive tackle to offensive end, and Nick Warren from defensive guard to offensive end.

The new line has Kistler as an all-time end and Warren as an all-time end.

The line, as it stood today, had Don Hyatt and Warren at the ends, Kistler and Carpenter at the tackles, Davis and Thorne at guards and Friedman at center.

The line in the Pitt game was Hyatt and Peeler at ends, Thorne and Carpenter at tackles, Warren and Taylor at guards and Friedman at center.

The return to playing form of Captain Kistler forced a change and while they were at it the coaches made two. They had to bench Mel Peeler to give Warren the full-time end job. And they had to bench Taylor to let Davis in. Davis played such a fine game against Pitt that it was hard to deny him.

Two changes already had been made in the backfield, putting Beaver at right half and Jankowski at full.

And that is the team that right now looks best to the coaches and which may hold together until the Navy game at Annapolis.

But at the same time there is spirited fighting on for nearly every job and it is possible changes will be made before the train leaves for Maryland the night of the eighteenth.

Baby 'Gators To Play Tigers

Gainesville, Fla., October 11.—Football fans are anxiously awaiting the opening freshman gridiron spectacle of the 1929 season Saturday when the University of Florida "Baby 'Gators" meet Auburn on Fleming field. Play will begin at 3 o'clock.

Auburn pried the lid of her schedule a week ago, registering an impressive victory. From reports filtering into the camp of the young 'Gators, the strongest freshman team from the Auburn plains in years will be on deck Saturday.

Prospects in fresh football here have not been bright, and close observers of the situation predict only a fair season for "Baby" Cowell, the "Little Napoleon of Southern Freshman Football," who has attained the finest record in the past six years of any Dixie mentor. An absence of what is generally regarded as good, strong material is the cause of the pessimism in 'Gatorland.

Florida's fresh, however, are going into the Auburn fray ready to give the young Tigers a real battle. A squad reduced to about 65 has been given many afternoons of real practice in the past two weeks, and with one exception, Joe Jenkins, the 1928 All-State Florida high school football champion, the "Baby 'Gators" are primed for their initial test.

Jenkins is regarded as definitely out of Saturday's game with an injury that Wednesday had him confined in the university infirmary.

Of the two line-ups indicated today by Boss Cowell, only two of the 22 athletes are out-of-state boys, and both are on the second eleven. Boys from the smaller high schools of Florida have been monopolizing the spotlight during the early weeks of fresh football activity.

Quitman Loses. Quitman, Ga., October 11.—Douglas High school defeated Quitman High today, 23 to 7. Both teams fought hard but Douglas outplayed its opponents in all phases of the game. Douglas made 15 first downs to Quitman's seven. The game was fast and both teams played clean ball. For Douglas: Bland Mitchell, Goodwin, Brewer and William Sikes played best. For Quitman: Rowman, Rawlings and Haddock played best.

MERCER BEARS ARE SMOTHERED BY 39-7 SCORE

Birmingham-Southern Rolls Up 33 Points in Second Half.

Birmingham, Ala., October 11.—(AP).—Running wild in the second half to score 33 points, Birmingham-Southern College smothered the Mercer Bears under an avalanche of touchdowns today to win by a score of 39 to 7.

The local collegians got away to a 6-point lead early in the game when Billy Smith tossed a short pass to Black, who ran 40 yards for a touchdown. The Panthers threatened again as the first half ended, carrying the ball to Mercer's 2-foot line. Mercer once got to the Southern 24-yard line in the first half, but was held for downs. The Panthers added two more touchdowns in the third quarter, one on a sustained drive from midfield with Pigeon going over the 2-yard line after a pass from Smith to James and the second on a 12-yard pass from Smith to Black after the former had intercepted a Mercer pass on the Georgians' 39-yard line and carried the ball to the 12-yard strip. Southern scored again a moment later when Caraway took the ball on the kick-off and dashed 60 yards for a touchdown. Passes brought another touchdown soon after the next kick-off. Barnes scoring on a heave from O'Brien. An intercepted pass on Mercer's 30-yard line followed by a 15-yard penalty against Matt, of Mercer, for roughing and a pass from O'Brien to McCullough, brought the final touchdown.

Georgian Hotel Yale Headquarters

Headquarters of the Yale team in Athens, where it plays the University of Georgia Bulldogs Saturday to dedicate the new stadium, will be at the Georgian hotel. The hotel is under new management, L. W. Nelson being the lessee. Mr. Nelson formerly was the manager of Hotel Holman, also in Athens, and before that was connected with the Staller chain, widely known throughout the south. At one time he was president of the Georgia Hotel Men's Association and of the Oklahoma Hotel Men's Association. Prior to coming to Georgia Mr. Nelson was connected with the Hudson chain of hotels in the southwest.

OGLETHORPE, LOYOLA TIE UNDER LIGHTS

Petrels Hold Wolves on One-Inch Line in Scoreless Battle.

New Orleans, La., October 11.—(United News).—Although twice getting within two yards of a touchdown, the Loyola Wolves were unable to score tonight and played to a 0-0 tie with Oglethorpe University under the flood lights of Loyola stadium here.

At one time Oglethorpe held the Wolves for three downs on the one-inch line. Bad passes from center and frequent fumbles at crucial moments blasted the conquerors of Georgia University, as most of the game was played in Oglethorpe's territory.

Bass Wins.

Philadelphia, October 11.—(AP).—Benny Bass, flashy Philadelphia featherweight, scored a quick knockout over Armando Santiago, Cuban boxer, in the second round of their 10-round fight at the 'Phillies' ball park tonight. Santiago was knocked unconscious in the second round with a right to the jaw. He weighed 130 pounds; Bass 126 3/4.

Georgia's Co-eds Hold Pep Meet

Athens, Ga., October 11.—Four hundred Georgia co-eds attended the mass meeting for women which was held tonight. Several prominent Yale students were guests of the co-eds at the meeting. The co-ed pep meeting, the first ever held by women at the university, was their own idea and sprang from an ardent desire on the part of women students to help in some way to win the Yale-Georgia game.

G. M. A. BOWS TO M'CALLIE ELEVEN, 6-0

Hackney Shines in Defeat—Chattanooga Are Hard Pressed.

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 11.—McCallie's Blue Tornado turned back another Georgia bid for southern prep gridiron honors today by defeating G. M. A. 6 to 0 in the first game of a double header at Pattern field today.

From the opening whistle, it was all McCallie, G. M. A., or rather it was a one-man team of Hackney, probably the finest back seen in action on a prep school grid here this season, threatened only once and then an intercepted pass spoiled the effort.

The Tornado machine played like a football machine should. The Blue Warriors wallowed the Cadets for 13 first downs, while the best that the visitors could do was register two. The lone touchdown was made by Phillips, in a 40-yard march down the field during which three consecutive first downs were chalked up. Phillips wound up the parade by stepping 15 yards to the goal. Richards' try for the point failed.

NEW FLORES

Governors See Game. Four governors, O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina; Bibb Graves, of Alabama; Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, and L. G. Hardman, of Georgia, were guests of Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech at the Tech-North Carolina football game Friday afternoon.

The governors spent the night in the city and will leave early this morning for Athens, Ga., where they, with others, will be distinguished guests at the Yale-Georgia football game this afternoon.

Reporters at Belmont Park noted a pronounced preference for the raw edge felt in brown. The brim this year is slightly wider and has been seen worn both snapped and up all around. This style also in gray and tan.

Branch Runs Wild In Great Victory

Large Crowd Watches Tech Lose in Second Game of Year—Stumpy Shines.

Edwin Adkins, a huge man who never seemed to tire. He battered down two Tech tackles. He wore out two Tech tackles. He stuck his big frame into play after play. What a tackle he is. And what a game he played.

CAPTAIN FARRIS.

Captain Ray Farris also turned in a great bit of play. There was not an apparent weakness in the Tarheel line yesterday. It outplayed the jacket line consistently.

That would have been enough to win. But Chuck Collins had that backfield. When one considers that he played without his regular quarterback, Wyrick, and his regular fullback, House, the victory becomes all the more convincing.

TWO SUBS IN.

Starting the game with two substitutes, Collins kept a backfield in that was always dangerous. Strud Nash proved a great back while he was in. Rip Slusser was a terror to the jacket line. The others used were all dangerous.

Above them all, however, stood the magnificent figure of the Tarheel line yesterday. Johnny Branch. He is just a sophomore. He was the biggest of the year as the man responsible for the punting, the calling of the signals and the returning of the punts. He did not always gain. The plays will show, at a matter of fact, that he was thrown for many losses and short gains. But every start was a threat. His every effort challenged all the Tech eleven had.

All the Georgia boundaries will not hold the Tech's today. North Carolina gleefully and almost carelessly knocked the crown from the head of the king and stabled him to death in his own throne room. There is always something a bit pathetic in the toppling of the mighty.

POES REJOICE.

For Tech's foes it was a day of rejoicing. The Georgia boys, even, could not escape it. Several loud-speaking gentlemen wearing colored denims and the jacket eleven and cheered the advance of the Tarheels.

Coach Wallace Wade, of the Crimson Tide, smiled grimly and with satisfaction as he watched his old Nemesis go down to defeat. Ed Thorpe, who will officiate in the Georgia-Yale game today, complimented both teams. "Tech has power," he said. "For five or six minutes today they looked great. After that they seemed to lose their team play. North Carolina had a great lot of that today. Their ball had more help. It was a fine game."

PLAYERS HEART-BROKEN.

Tech's players were heart-broken. Out of the darkness of defeat stands yet the tremendous lot of labor that the Tarheels contributed to his share of the fight. He fought a great battle, did the big fellow from Savannah. He was battling them all afternoon and then he suffered. Many times he plugged the holes in the line with that great bulk of his.

It was a new experience for the Jackets, this fighting for a lost cause. They were, after all, just eleven boys who felt glory slipping away from them. Their's was the bitter cup but they drank it without a whimper. It may be banal and conventional but Tech had nothing to be ashamed of in the defeat. No football team can last forever. No coach can survive the loss of material that Coach W. A. Alexander, that gallant gentleman and fine coach, suffered this year. The dynasty had to end some day.

COLD FIGURES.

The cold figures of the game show Tech's inferiority in competition. The Tarheels made nine first downs to six for Tech. Those were the earned ones. The Tarheel margin was even greater if the first down is counted in which penalties figured.

Tech tried 19 forward passes and completed 6 for 69 yards. North Carolina tried 16 and completed 8 for 86 yards.

Tech suffered 98 yards in penalties for 20 for North Carolina. To the victors belong the spoils.

CLEAR WEATHER.

It was a great day for football. The sun was shining bright but there was still a tinge of fall in the air. There was a wind cutting in from the northeast like a fast halfback on the loose.

Georgia scouts, New York university scouts, scouts from Florida and points south, north, east and west were in the press box when the rival hands took the field.

North Carolina's 70-piece band appeared in a smart outfit of blue and white with caps. Tech's band of an equal number followed them on. They formed a "T" and then broke into "Ramblin' Wreck" as the crowd cheered.

There were approximately 18,000 people in the stands as the officials called the teams to the field.

Stumpy's head, in the fence near the north end of the field, evidenced quite a bit of interest in the proceedings, refusing to lie down and serve as a pillow for his attendant's head.

First Quarter.

North Carolina won the toss and elected to receive the kick. They went into a huddle at the sideline and broke onto the field to defend the north goal.

Yank Spaulding got Stumpy's kickoff and nudged back from the 45-yard line to the 17-yard line. He was hurt on the play and time went out. He ran into about four men who hit him at once. Branch getting the first tackle.

North Carolina took the ball on her own 33-yard line, using a set formation with an end shifting out. The offense that was built up as being one of the greatest in the south was ready to start.

Jimmy Ward was flung back by Coot Watkins on his first shot at the line. He tried again and made a high one to Johnny Branch, who got back to two yards.

The bounding Main fumbled and lost two yards trying to run with it after he picked it up.

MIZZELL GAINS.

Warner Mizell, on a punt formation play, sped 14 yards over the North Carolina right tackle. At the first line, North Carolina's line got together and stopped an attempt to knife Dunlap through for short gains. He made five in two plays and Warner Mizell boosted a high one to Johnny Branch, who got back to two yards.

The first break of the game gave the ball to Tech. Jimmy

Ward, slashing into Watkins, was tackled hard and fumbled. The ball squirted out of his hands and Earl Dunlap's form was on the ball when they uncovered the pile.

The jacket offense had the ball at North Carolina's 19-yard line and the first big push was on. It broke fast. Stumpy Thomson pushed through for thirty and came right back with eight and a first down on North Carolina's 6-yard line.

Tech's line was playing beautifully, lifting out the North Carolina forwards for nice holes.

TARHEELS HOLD.

The traditional shadow of their own goal line on their backs brought the Tarheels in fighting and they stopped Thomson after a one-yard gain. Eskey made the tackle, a hard one. Warner Mizell tried for a quick opening and failed to gain.

The fortunes of war turned on the next play. Earl Dunlap, starting for his own left end, slipped and was thrown for a loss. Thomson, kicking off, returning punts, running the ends, dropped back for a kick. He missed it by inches, his kick from the 15-yard line being wide by a few inches.

BREAK FOR N. C.

Whoever of the Fates was busy behind the scenes was pulling the strings wildly and blindly. Johnny Branch tried just one play from his own 20-yard line and then punted 30 yards up field to Thomson. The over-eager halfback fumbled and Fener flung himself upon it. It was North Carolina's ball on North Carolina's 29-yard line, a clear gain of 26 yards.

Chuck Collins, sitting on the bench tense as piano wires, sent in Jimmy Manger, star passer. Collins judged the time right to try the air game which he had confidently expected to use successfully.

Manger tried one on the first play, flinging a pass to Branch. It was short by inches. Manger then experimented with the line and got a half yard. Vance Maree nailed him down. Not satisfied, he threw for another play and was thrown for a 7-yard loss. Branch got the ball out of there with a punt and Thomson was covered so that he could get two yards back.

WELL COVERED.

North Carolina was spotting Mizell and Thomson. They were both watched on every play. The Tarheels having evidently scouted Tech carefully and getting in plays that Tech's two stars employ.

Mizzell's great toe shoved the ball far down into North Carolina's hands. Branch got it at the 4-yard line. It was a 71-yard punt and it followed two ineffectual attempts to pierce the Tarheel line.

That punt changed the entire complexion of the game, putting the Tarheels at their own goal line. The Tarheels seemed to come in to the game in a new way. Johnny Branch, the fighting little half-pint back, punted short, a mere 25 yards, out of bounds. It was another break.

STUMPY SCORES.

The Jackets swept into line and Stumpy Thomson, the Bounding Main, started bounding. He lashed out toward his own right end, gave ground and then went into high to outrun the pursuing Tarheels and score the first touchdown of the game. He kicked the goal to make it seven points. The break had been cashed in at full value.

The Tarheels, giving a great exhibition of fighting, came surging back. Johnny Branch took the kickoff and nudged it back a full 34 yards. He came all the way from his own goal line to put the ball well up in his own territory. Branch smothered a line attack but a really mighty mite, Ed Thorpe, a really mighty mite, flung a pass that Strud Nash took in for an 11-yard gain and first down. Some suspected it then, but the Tarheels were doing a rare thing in football—taking the ball on a march from one goal line across the other.

ANOTHER PASS.

Nash hustled through a hole in the disintegrating jacket line for nine yards. Johnny Branch shot out another pass and Jimmy Manger, the other half of the passing combination, reached out and got it for another gain—this one of 14 yards out of bounds.

Having wrangled the football to the 23-yard line, the Tarheels tried to slip in a pass. Manger flung it to the flying Branch but he couldn't reach it. An off-side penalty hurt the Tech cause with a 5-yard gain for the Tarheels.

On the next play Manger started for his right end, cut back desperately, swirled out of the arms of a tackler and scudded on across the goal line. Branch was through but missed him behind the line. He shook off Earl Dunlap at the line.

Studding missed the goal and Tech held to a slim lead.

TECH KICKS OFF.

Thomson kicked off and the play was off-side. They tried it again and Manger, who had returned the former one 28 yards, came dashing back 23 yards to his own 38-yard line.

Tech stopped one attack with the aid of a penalty. Branch punted to Stumpy Thomson and he turned in one of the rarest runs of his career. He shot down middle, disappeared into the grabbing arms of five tacklers, ducked low and shot beneath the arms. He lost enough momentum for others to haul him down but the mighty atom had brought that football back 22 full yards.

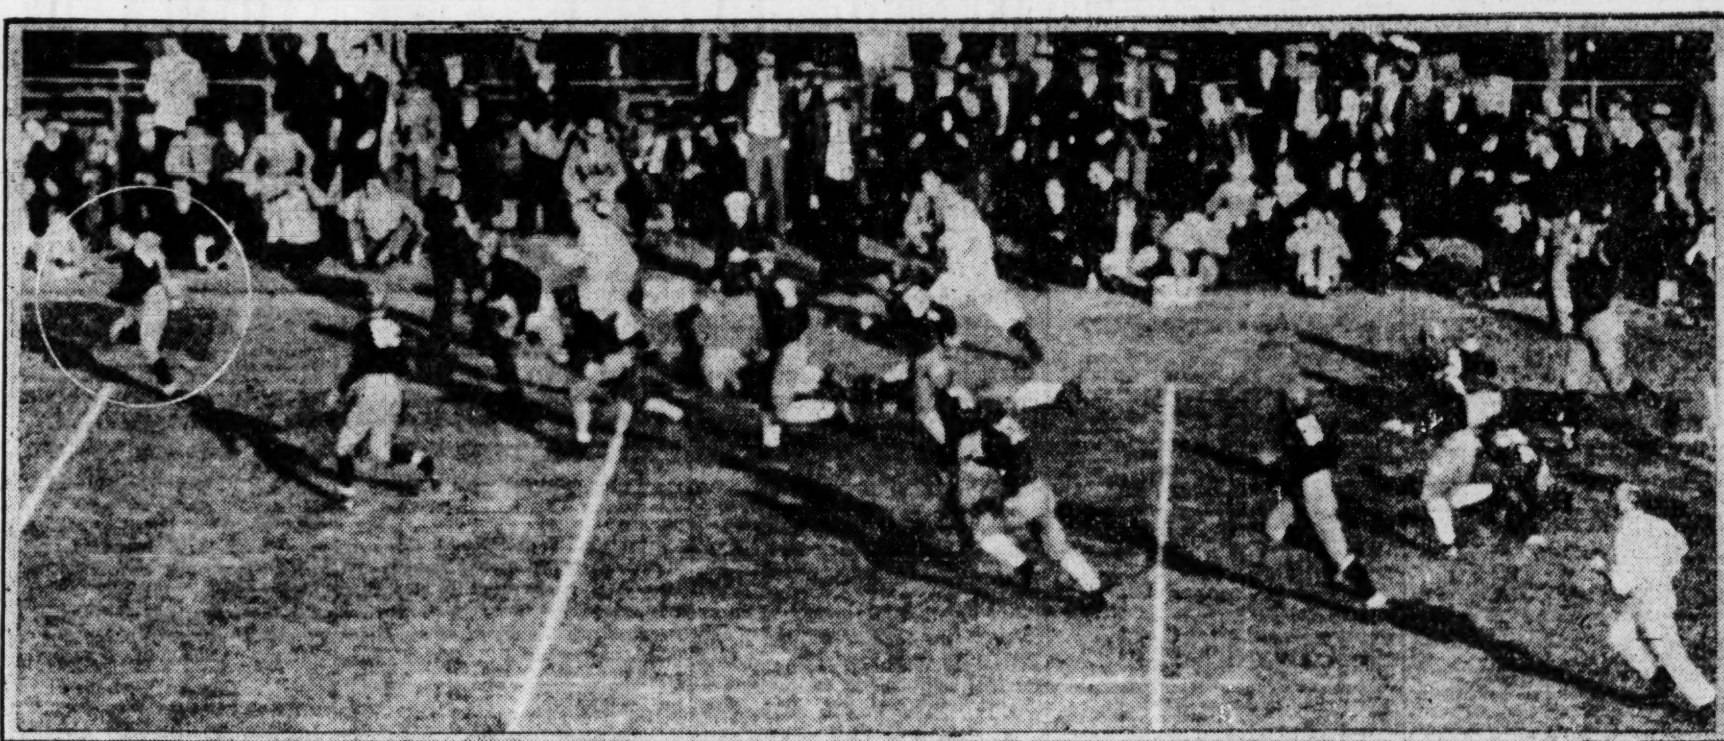

The ball was Tech's on her own 40-yard line. The Tech line had lost one of its punch. They were being outcharged by the Tarheel forwards. The forwards from North Carolina were being led by the bulky Fenton Flats, one of the finest tackles the Flats has seen. He was constantly throwing the line and spilling plays or throwing them off balance.

He threw Thomson for a 7-yard loss. He stopped Mizell for no gain.

"Had It Coming To Us"—Alex

"No coach enjoys seeing his team defeated," W. A. Alexander, Georgia Tech head coach, said after the game. "But I think this lick greatly improves this week. A defeat had to come, sooner or later and it is over now. The boys should have gotten a lot of things straightened out yesterday. North Carolina outplayed us and took advantage of its opportunities in smart fashion. Coach Collins is to be congratulated on the great form his team displayed."

Away Goes Johnny Branch on His Hatless Sprint for Touchdown

Above is a fleeting glimpse (in the circle) of Johnny Branch, the Magnificent Midget, safety man for the North Carolina eleven, as he sprinted down the sidelines past the Georgia Tech forces for the third Tarheel touchdown in the second quarter. Branch took a punt 65 yards from the goal line, shook loose from half a dozen Tech tacklers, lost his helmet, and outran the others in his mad dash. It firmly settled victory on the North Carolina side and assured the 18-to-7 score. Photo by Kenneth Rogers.

W. O. McGeehan Sees Tech Game

W. O. McGeehan, sports writer of the New York Herald Tribune, and one of The Constitution's staff correspondents, was in the press box at the Tech-North Carolina game Friday. His story appears in The Constitution today and his column is a regular feature.

With Mr. McGeehan were Reginald Root, former Yale star, and Roberto Noriega, quarterback and captain of the Mexican football team which Root is coaching at Mexico City.

Noriega enjoyed the game yesterday but the crowd was nothing to him. Fifteen thousand saw the first game he team played.

All the party will see the Yale-Georgia game at Athens today.

Collins Thinks About Georgia

"My boys played even better than we had hoped for," Chuck Collins said after the game as the Tarheels were making merry in their dressing room, "but we have a tough one coming up next Saturday at home with Georgia, and we do not want to forget that."

Tech has a great team and might have won but for the penalties they incurred. Every man we sent into the game did well, but I was most pleased with the way Johnny Branch, Nelson and Dorseth, three second-string men, performed. They came through for us in great style, just when we needed them most."

Clark in Hard Affair Today

Clark university will meet the fast, strong team of Miles Memorial college on the Clark athletic field today at 2:30.

The invaders arrived late Friday afternoon from the Magic City. Squad of 33 men, team physician and a hundred rooters making the trip.

No injuries have been reported from either camp and the monitors will be able to start their full strength. Chambers, All-American, and Cockey Dukes, backfield men for the Atlanta school, will see action for the first time this season.

On the last trip to South Carolina neither was in condition for the trip.

Minor, triple-threat of the Miles aggregation, who has been running wild, is the visitors' best bet.

Clark's line will average around 175, with Hainey and Fagan at guard, Hughes and Ballou at tackles, and James or Henbee at center. On the ends they will have Dalton and Oniel, veterans from last year's squad.

A special section will be set aside for white fans who will witness the game. It is expected that a crowd of 5,000 will witness the game.

The first 18 holes were played Thursday and Green was leading one up at the end of the first 18.

There are three I league has only two. Its full name is Illinois-Iowa-Iowa. There is no Iowa city at present in the circuit.

Georgia Honors Abraham Baldwin

Abraham Baldwin's memory will be honored Saturday as part of the ceremony connected with the Yale-Georgia game at Athens. The day has been set aside by the state assembly as "Abraham Baldwin Day."

It was Baldwin who really saved the nation. During the turmoil and confusion which followed the American Revolution it was Baldwin's vision which brought the warring colonial representatives through the most critical period of American history. By giving his support to the smaller colonies in the voting, when he had supported the larger ones, he brought about a tie vote in the constitutional convention and thus prevented it being disrupted. A compromise was brought about and the convention brought forth the present constitution. It was Baldwin who had saved the convention.

Georgia-Tulane Sale Satisfactory

Columbus, Ga., October 11.—(AP)—J. Wright Brown, chairman of the ticket committee for the Georgia-Tulane football game here November 1, said today that the advance seat sale is under way and is progressing satisfactorily. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the game here and special committees are working under the direction of Almond J. Westbrook, general chairman.

He picked up a punt with the Golden Tornado headed straight for him. It struck him with a gust and he wiggled through. It swirled after him and flattened him to the turf. He came from under and gusts bit him again and again. But, blown from his feet, Johnny Branch rose again and swept through the scattered whirlwinds. Then the governor of North Carolina started to compose the speech that he would make to the governor of South Carolina. The doings certainly merited some famous remark.

It was at this point that the nickname of Tarheel seemed inappropriate for the men of Georgia Tech will tell you that they never saw a cleaner pair of heels than the pair that Johnny Branch showed them. Somebody suggests that the crafty young sophomore of the turpentine belt removed the tar from his heels to deceive the trusting Georgians.

The score was 7 to 6 in Tech's favor when this bit of melodrama happened. The governor of North Carolina, sitting in the stands with the state guards from the Tarheels' college, was still very uncertain as to whether he would have anything much to say at the end of the game when Johnny Branch got loose.

DAY IN FINANCE

By
R. L. BARNUM

New York, October 11.—Stocks opened strong and got stronger during the first hour and a half, with the ticker dropping over 20 minutes behind the stock exchange floor. Steel common, opening at 230, advanced with the rest of the market following on top of yesterday's gain. Around 11:30 o'clock selling started, carrying Steel common down to 228 7/8 with the rest of the market following. This selling represented profit-taking on the advances of the past week. With tomorrow Columbus Day and Monday a Jewish holiday, many professional and semi-professional traders left for the week-end with a clean slate.

A recovery started around the middle of the noon hour when call money, which again renewed at 6, again dropped to 5 on the stock exchange floor, with plenty of funds available on the outside market at 1 1/2 per cent. Time money was again easier with the rate 8 1/4 to 8 1/2. This represents a steady decline this week in time money from the 9 1/4 quoted for all periods a week ago.

In the late trading stocks again declined on profit-taking. At the closing average prices, however, half of the drastic decline ending a week ago to-day had been made up.

The position of the federal reserve banks is now very much stronger than when the agitation started against mounting brokers' loans.

The reserve ratio of the New York federal reserve bank, which dropped to 85.3, against 75 a year ago. The figures for the system are now 74.4, against 61.6 a year ago.

Member Banks Borrow. Member banks of the New York federal reserve district are borrowing only $20,000,000 from the federal reserve. This represents a drop of $25,000,000 compared with a week ago, a drop of $117,000,000 compared with two weeks ago, and a decline of $206,000,000 contrasted with a year ago. It means that the member banks here are now practically out of debt to the federal reserve.

Recently the member banks here in Wall Street, uneasy about the mounting brokers' loans made another cut in the prices at which stocks would be accepted in the loan envelopes. For example:

THE CONSTITUTION CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

Many Traders Take Advantage of the Rather Lengthy Holiday To Clean Slate or Await Developments; Easier Money Is Becoming More Widely Reflected.

With the member banks here in Wall Street thus putting pressure on stock exchange houses, the stock exchange houses in turn put pressure on their customers by demanding additional margin. The additional margin put up by traders in the stock market undoubtedly is a factor in the stronger position of the member banks and also in this week's decline of $81,000,000 in brokers' loans. Every dollar put up by traders in the stock market in additional margin means just so much less for the brokers to borrow from the banks.

Montgomery Ward increased its annual dividend today from $2.50 to $3. Last November the company sold new stock to its shareholders at $17.50 a share and last July additional stock was sold at $50 a share. The $3 dividend now received by holders of Montgomery Ward makes an attractive average dividend on the old and new stock held.

Easier money is reflected in this week's bond offerings. The total of $196,000,000 compares with $50,000,000 last week and with $47,000,000 for this week a year ago. For the past year bonds have been declining steadily because interest of the outside public has been centered in the stock market. The drop in money and also the recent drop in stock prices has resulted in more attention being paid by the public to bonds. Improved Wall Street expects the interest of the public in bonds to increase with less interest being shown in the stock market, as is "as long as" general trade shows any tendency to drop.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 48

Copyright, 1929, by Edgar Rice Burroughs. All rights reserved.

The girl leveled a heavy rifle at the Russian's breast—his own gun, that she had taken from his tent that fateful night she made her escape. Quickly, at sight of it, Rokoff dropped the rope, the dug-out floated beyond his grasp, soon disappearing from his sight around a bend in the river. Then he turned and ran upstream to the first place he had landed, when his party sought the fleeing girl.

Meanwhile Tarzan, following the trail of the Russian, came suddenly upon his Beasts moving slowly along. They appeared glad to see him again, and Mugambi could scarce believe that the mate of his savage master had passed so close to them without being detected by some of the marvelously keen and alert animals. Again with the pack following, the ape-man pressed rapidly on.

With a little thrill of expectation he now leaped ahead of the pack, swung swiftly through the trees and came out upon the river bank at the very point at which Rokoff had overhauled him as she endeavored to launch the dugout. In the mud Tarzan saw the footprints of the two he sought. It was plain as day that a boat had left this shore recently. But nowhere was there sight of boat or humans.

Then, as the ape-man's keen eye ran swiftly down the course of the river, he saw in the far distance, just as it rounded a bend that had shut it from his view, a drifting dugout. In the stern appeared some object. A half hour's rapid traveling by a short cut brought Tarzan to the inward bend of the river. Here he now saw that object was Rokoff—alone, and paddling rapidly. Where was Jane?

Today - YALE-GEORGIA ATHENS Game!

and the STATE of GEORGIA
WELCOME YOU to the

FORMAL OPENING EVENT of the NEW UNIVERSITY of GEORGIA STADIUM

ATHENS, seat of learning and cradle of Georgia beauty and chivalry for generations, has forgotten her well bred calm today. Athens is bustling about helter-skelter yet withal in a business-like manner to entertain 35,000 guests.

Yale is in town. Yale's football team traditionally embound within the confines of the "Big Three" has forgotten precedent and has sent one of its best football teams in years to Athens to play the University of Georgia.

The game will dedicate the new Sanford stadium, a magnificent football field—a glittering white gem set in a graceful valley shaded by gnarled oaks and pines—and will be a testimonial of the warm feeling between the distinguished educators of the two great universities.

For, over a century ago, Yale graduates founded the college at Athens that has become the pride of the entire state. And during the years of struggle, Yale grew to regard the younger college as a favorite daughter.

Athens homes have been thrown open to entertain the visitors from New England. The big pot has been put in the little one, to use an expression the guests will not understand, but which means that Athens is outdoing even the hospitality for which it is famous.

Townpeople have arisen to the task of feeding the army of football fans that will come from every quarter of the Southland and from beyond the rivers north and west. Railroad lines have co-operated without a competitive hobble in providing the greatest mobilization of special trains in history. Most of the visitors are spending the nights in Atlanta but the day of the game they will roam through Athens, many of them for the first time since they were callow collegians.

And the game—two Bulldogs will meet in a game that can result in nothing but a fine, cleanly fought battle of skilled elevens that will delight the sportsman.

Athens and the University have done themselves proud. And every visitor will carry home a happy memory of the Yale-Georgia Day.

Senators Restrict Power Of Customs Agents to Decide Morality of Foreign Literature

Tariff Bill Seems Doomed by Lack of Time To Pass on Many Amendments and Rates.

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER, Associated Press Staff Writer. Washington, October 11.—(P)—The senate today went on record for a less rigid prohibition against the entry into the United States of foreign literature that might be regarded as of an immoral or seditious character.

By a vote of 38 to 36 it adopted an amendment by Senator Cutting, republican, New Mexico, striking from the tariff bill the provision in existing law barring the importation of books held by customs officials to be of an immoral nature and eliminating part of a new provision which would have closed the doors of entry to literature advocating treason or insurrection.

At the suggestion of Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, the New Mexico senator modified his proposal to retain that section of the new provision prohibiting entry of literature urging forcible resistance to any law of the United States or containing a threat against the life of an American citizen. In this form it was adopted.

Earlier the senate had rejected an amendment by Senator Cutting, republican, New Mexico, striking from the tariff bill the provision in existing law barring the importation of books held by customs officials to be of an immoral nature and eliminating part of a new provision which would have closed the doors of entry to literature advocating treason or insurrection.

The Vote.

The opposition that was hoped on the New Mexico senator's original proposal led Cutting to modify it and as a result he drew seven additional senators to his cause. The issue, clearly an individual one, finally was settled by the following vote:

Republicans for: Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, Couzens, Cutting, Frazier, Gillett, Glenn, Howell, Johnson, LaFollette, McMaster, Norris, Pine, Walcott; total, 15.

Democrats for: Black, Bratton, Broussard, Caraway, Connally, Dill, Fletcher, George, Hawes, Hayden, King, McKellar, Pittman, Ransdell, Robinson of Arkansas, Simmons, Stock, Thomas of Oklahoma, Tydings, Wagner, Walsh of Massachusetts, Walsh of Montana, Wheeler; total, 23.

Republicans against: Allen, Capper, Deneen, Fess, Giff, Goldsborough, Greene, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Keyes, McNary, Metcalf, Moses, Oddie, Robinson of Indiana, Sackett, Schall, Shortridge, Smoot, Steiwer, Thomas of Idaho, Vandenberg, Warren, Watson; total, 28.

Democrats against: Barkley, Biess, Brook, Hedlin, Overman, Shepard, Smith, Trammell; total, 8. Grand total against, 36.

Senator Cutting held the floor most of the day for his proposals, although he had assistance from others, including Senators LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, and Tydings, democrat, Maryland.

Like Classroom Lecture. Like a schoolmaster lecturing a class in the classics and the philosophies of such literary geniuses as Homer, Shakespeare, Dante, Milton and others, the youthful looking senator from the southwest pictured a "clerk of the bureau of customs" passing on whether these or works of political nature transgressed decency or could be found in the minds of Americans believing in free speech and government by the people.

The youth of the land, he said, must be guarded against moral corruption by their families and the laws of the states and not by an individual customs inspector. It was ridiculous to bar an occasional immoral book, he argued, when adolescent children could read in the daily newspapers of murders and sordid love scandals.

Speaking for the bill's provisions, Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, said it was "scarcely consistent on the part of congress to prohibit the dissemination of this matter through the use of the mails and yet allow the country to be flooded from abroad."

"I hope that congress will not serve notice to the world," he asserted, "that the bars are down, so far as our customs laws are concerned, to all the obscene, indecent, and salacious matter that may be published abroad. I know it is said that much of the so-called obscene matter is literature—classical literature—and that foreign classics die along with the matter immoral in purpose, use and tendency."

Let Classics Suffer. "Well," he continued, "let the dead bury the dead. It were better, to my mind, that a few classics suffer the application of the expurgating shears than that this country be flooded with the books, pamphlets, pictures, and other articles that are wholly indecent both in purpose and tendency."

Calling attention to the vastness of the American public school and college system, Senator Cutting asked: "Is our educational system so feeble that it can not offset an occasional bad book? Are our institutions so weak that they would be hurt by an obscene book?"

The New Mexico senator marveled at the works of Homer, Dante and Shakespeare, yet, he said, they had been held up by many as "immoral and licentious authors."

The task of getting the bill out of the way before the special session ends in December appeared increasingly hopeless today.

Numerous controversies, some of which, like that over sugar imports, are expected to consume a week or more, are certain to grow out of the rate schedules. And with only 40 legislative days left for the special session to continue, the rate schedules—16 of them—have not been reached yet.

Many Amendments. A dozen or more individual amendments to the bill were introduced today. There is talk of a move by the coalition of democrats and independent republicans, which has repeatedly defeated the regular republicans on the flexible tariff policy and lesser issues, to move to dispense with the regular order and take up the agriculture schedule first.

By bringing the farm rates to the fore, the coalition would be able to support as many increases in that schedule as its members desire, and then to oppose industrial increases generally afterward.

With pressure for time becoming increasingly apparent, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, has reiterated minority party assertions that "the fault will lie with the administration" if a tariff bill is not enacted during the special session. The republican leadership, though taking quite a different view, are not optimistic that a bill will be passed. Their worries are increased by the thought that the president might not approve of continuing tariff revision into a regular session, and that this would mean no tariff revision at all.

Debate Is Bitter. In one of his most aggressive speeches in the senate, "Young Bob" LaFollette, striking for the Cutting proposal, said:

"Tyranny has always taken the ground that dissemination of knowledge is dangerous to the common people. Are we to take the ground that people cannot be trusted with knowledge of the world? If we do, let us admit that democracy has failed."

"We are not running a Sunday school—we are running a government," Senator Tydings asserted. "Evil is he who evil thinks," he said, and referring to the men who decide on the acceptance of foreign books and literature, asked "Shall Almighty God given them a better mind to judge than anybody else?"

Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, opposed the Cutting proposal, holding it was "high time that we lay our hands on this devilish foreign literature and suppress it."

There were too many "isms" in this country now, said the Alabamian, adding that communistic and fascist literature is flooding the land.

Senator Black, democrat, Alabama, took a different slant on the matter. Discussing the proposed ban on immoral books, he said no one favored the indiscriminate dissemination of immoral literature, but the fact that something has been censored gave it all the more advertisement.

Recess Is Taken. Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, said he could not subscribe to the doctrine of suppression by "substituting the sheriff for the schoolmaster."

Referring to arguments that many objectionable books were in Spanish and French, the Arkansas senator said:

"That's censorship enough for me." Pressing his amendment to bar literature urging forcible resistance to American laws, which Cutting and the senate finally rejected, Senator Couzens said America should not allow foreigners to do here what the United States does not permit its citizens to do.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, read a protest from Harvard university students in which they characterized "political censorship" as unsound.

With disposition of the literature amendments, the senate took a recess over the week-end. Meanwhile, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, at the request of Senator Smoot, will confer with the finance committee chairman as to possible means of facilitating action on the bill. Smoot called attention that the senate had spent nearly two days on the Cutting proposition.

Confession. This action was followed by an announcement from the district attorney's office that it had received affidavits from a private detective stating that forty-five minutes after Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of the theatrical magnate, had been convicted of manslaughter last month, a conference was held at the Pantages home in which the evangelist participated.

The affidavit involved the names of Judge Carlos S. Hardy, who presided at Mrs. Pantages' trial and who once was subjected to a legislative investigation for alleged acceptance of fees from the evangelist while serving on the bench, and W. I. Gilbert, Mrs. Pantages' lawyer and former attorney for the evangelist.

The district attorney's office said it was investigating the circumstances of the conference at which the husband of the prisoner, Alexander Pantages, now on trial on a statutory charge, was present. Newspapermen, although unable to reach Mr. and Mrs. Pantages, learned from a son, Rodney, that Mrs. McPherson was a "friend" of the family.

The break in Mrs. McPherson's ministerial staff was the second within recent weeks. At her Detroit temple a part of the congregation led by a pastor decried the organization because of alleged excessive expenditures of the evangelist on a tour there.

Springfield, Mass., October 11.—(P)—Ice-topped milk bottles and frozen automobile radiators in this vicinity early today emphasized a further drop in temperature. Brimfield reported 12 degrees. Hampden, near-by, had 15 degrees, while in this city the mercury hovered about the 20 mark.

EIGHT DEPUTIES HELD FOR MURDER IN RIOT

Slaying of Six Strikers Brings Murder Bills for Officers.

Marion, N. C., October 11.—(P)—Judge W. F. Harding today held eight deputy sheriffs on a charge of murder in connection with a riot at the Marion Manufacturing Company's plant on October 2 which cost six strikers their lives.

The men were released on $3,000 bonds to be tried at the next regular session of the North Carolina superior court. Sheriff O. F. Adkins and seven deputies who had been charged with murder were released by Judge Harding, who conducted the state's preliminary investigation as a committing magistrate on orders from Governor Gardner.

Those bound over for court trial had all testified in the hearing that they fired at strikers during the early morning battle over strikers had fired at them. They were: B. L. Robbins, W. A. Fender, Dave Jarrett, Jim Owens, Charlie Tate, Taylor Green, Bill Twigg and Robert Ward.

The death list from the fight was increased to six today when T. L. Carver, a striker who had been shot through the neck, died at a hospital.

Between 50 and 60 strikers charged with rioting, rebellion, and resisting an officer were bound over to the superior court last week when they waived preliminary hearings.

In freeing Sheriff Adkins and seven of his deputies, Judge Harding said that he could find no evidence that the sheriff or the seven had violated the law.

Charlotte, N. C., October 11.—(P)—An unsuccessful effort to inject the race question into a trial in which communism already threatens to become an issue was made by the prosecution today in the case of the seven labor agitators and strikers, charged with second degree murder in connection with the shooting of O. F. Adkins, Gastonia chief of police.

Dewey Martin, an organizer for the National Textile Workers' Union, was asked if he had ever spoken on the same platform with a negro named Otto Hall. The defense objected and at the suggestion of E. T. Candler, prosecution attorney, the jury was excused.

"We propose to show," the attorney argued before Judge M. V. Barnhill, "that this witness spoke on the same platform with this negro and that social equality was advocated between the white and the black, and that it was asserted that it was one of the objects of the union to promote social equality."

"That might depend," Judge Barnhill replied, "upon where the case is being tried."

TWO NEGROES CONFESS ROADSIDE SLAYINGS

Memphis Pair Admit Killing Salesman and City Fireman.

Memphis, Tenn., October 11.—(P)—The roadside slayings of Van Skelton, a city fireman, and Sterling T. Dunn, 34, a salesman, which for months have baffled the police, have been solved, W. T. Griffin, detective inspector, announced late today with the confessions of two negroes—Edward Jones, 19, and John C. Smith, 21.

Jones, according to the police announcement, confessed the killing of Skelton and Smith admitted that he fired on Dunn, both shootings the outgrowth of attempted holdups.

Smith, police said, implicated Jones and another negro, Effie Glynn, now under arrest in Toledo, Ohio, in the Dunn slaying.

Skelton was shot and killed while seated in a parked automobile on a lonely road with a woman companion. The woman previously had partially identified Jones as the slayer of the fireman.

Saw Badge. "The man reached for his hip pocket and I saw a badge," Jones is quoted as having told police. "I thought he was a policeman. I fired one shot and he fell."

Smith, according to the alleged confession, told of coming up on Dunn and an unidentified woman in an automobile, and of ordering them to hold up their hands.

"He pulled a gun from a pocket of the car," Smith was quoted, "and fired one shot and ran. When we were about 50 feet away I fired one more shot."

Both killings occurred in the same vicinity.

Griffin said two charges of murder will be placed against Jones and one against Smith. Efforts will be made to have Glynn returned from Toledo for trial here.

Jones and Smith were arrested several days ago. Another negro was arrested with them, but police said it was determined that he was not implicated in either the Skelton or Dunn killings.

COSTE'S REPORTED SALE OF PLANE AROUSES MOSCOW

Moscow, October 11.—(P)—Reports here that Dieudonne Coste has sold to the Chinese authorities the airplane in which he made his recent record-breaking flight from France across Russia and Siberia to Manchuria has caused a storm of indignation in aviation circles here.

Commander P. T. Baraboff, president of the soviet civil aviation council, declared today that Coste's action in failing to follow the route prescribed by the soviet government, entering the forbidden military zone of the soviet far eastern army and failing to land at Irkutsk or elsewhere in soviet territory as he had "pledged" himself to do not only violated the laws of the soviet union as well as international aerial law but constituted a distinct hostile act and abuse of Russian hospitality.

Baraboff said that this was more flagrant in view of the highly strained relations between soviet Russia and China.

VIRGINIA GIRL OFF TO FRANCE TO TAKE VEIL

New York, October 11.—(P)—Miss Lucy Kearny Hill, Richmond, Va., society girl, is aboard the liner Rochambeau en route to France where she will enter a convent to become a nun.

Miss Hill, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Harrison Hill, will enter the convent of the Servantes Du Tres-Saint-Sacrement in Paris and plans to take the veil early next month. She will be attached to the mother house in Paris.

On her mother's side, Miss Hill is a member of a family long prominent in American history. Her great-grandfather was General Philip Kearny, after whom the town of Kearny, N. J., is named.

Her grandfather was General Stephen Watts Kearny, who, as commander of the army of the west in 1846, conquered New Mexico, and who later was governor of Vera Cruz and of Mexico City.

The refusal became apparent from a list which Dr. Eckener circulated among the Zeppelin crew asking a positive or negative statement from each.

Plans for the projected polar flight of the Graf Zeppelin called for a trip of about 16,500 miles to be covered in three stages with fueling at Tromsø, Norway, and Fairbanks, Alaska. Dr. Friedrich Nansen, famous explorer, is the organizer.

The Zeppelin is to be manned by a crew of 35 and to carry 35 scientists. On September 20 it was announced that the trip was scheduled for April or May of next year.

ZEPPELIN CREW REFUSES TO GO ON POLAR FLIGHT

Friedrichshafen, Germany, October 11.—(P)—Dr. Hugo Eckener and the entire crew of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin with the exception of Commander Ernest Lehmann, have refused to participate in the projected north pole flight of next year "for financial and technical reasons."

The refusal became apparent from a list which Dr. Eckener circulated among the Zeppelin crew asking a positive or negative statement from each.

FUNDS DIVERSION CHARGED TO AIMEE

Los Angeles, October 11.—(P)—Five pastors of Angelus Temple and its branches, two of whom had been discharged within the last forty-eight hours by Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson, appeared in the district attorney's office today and accused her of misappropriation of funds.

The ministers brought alleged photostatic copies of the Temple's records as evidence but they were instructed to obtain the original books and return. Simultaneously, Deputy District Attorney Daniel Beecher ordered an investigation.

Mrs. McPherson, when advised of the charges, replied that she would make no statement until she had conferred with her attorney.

The charges were made jointly by the Rev. John Golden, former executive of the Temple, who was discharged two days ago after a disagreement over policies; the Rev. H. E. Alford of Angelus Temple, the Rev. Willard Pope of Pomona, who was dismissed last night, the Rev. R. L. Larson of Hollywood and the Rev. J. H. Stilton of El Monte.

Confession. This action was followed by an announcement from the district attorney's office that it had received affidavits from a private detective stating that forty-five minutes after Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of the theatrical magnate, had been convicted of manslaughter last month, a conference was held at the Pantages home in which the evangelist participated.

ATHENS REGARDS YALE-GEORGIA GAME AS GREATEST CIVIC AID

Leaders Believe Football Contest of Inestimable Value to City and County

Dr. S. V. Sanford Is Praised for Part in Bringing Biggest Fair to University Town.

BY DAN MAGILL.

Athens, Ga., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Athens not only has received hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of favorable publicity from the Georgia-Yale football game to be played here tomorrow but the event, and the necessarily cooperative efforts of its citizens has recreated civic pride and caused many of the depressionist school of civics to throw out their chests.

Now that the stadium has been built, acclaimed a thing of beauty—and Athens has demonstrated its ability to handle big projects, even somewhat to its own surprise, the city is ready to undertake other civic enterprises, with the same determination and co-operative spirit that will make the Yale-Georgia game a success. Athens feels like it is no longer a hapless little city, its feeling of incapacity has been dissipated. A college professor, representative of the "dreamers" who dare not tackle the tough and weighty matters of big business, has shown the business community here how to do big things. He's given the city the metropolitan urge.

When Dr. S. V. Sanford, dean of the University of Georgia and its faculty chairman of athletics, first announced last year that a stadium capable of seating 30,000 people would be built at the university, and work would commence immediately, not a few of his fellow citizens and associates thought he was suffering from too much contact with reality and somewhat dumbbellish youth.

Qualified.

Knowing that he possessed many of the qualifications necessary to do a good job when once he set his hands to a task, these people who had long accustomed themselves to doubt the success of any projected scheme in the name of progress, were satisfied that Dr. Sanford would produce a masterpiece. But when the preliminary plans were over, and the ravine between the University and State College of Agriculture grounds had been cleared of trees and shrubbery, a creek had been dredged and covered with concrete, many people thought that the stadium would become a completed project in about as many years as it took to put the finishing touches to Memorial hall.

But the stadium was built today and it has been pronounced one of the handsomest in the United States, and undoubtedly the finest in the southeast. As the stadium began growing, citizens began grasping its meaning to Athens, not only from an athletic standpoint, but from a commercial viewpoint. Then, before it was quite finished, Dr. Sanford announced that he had been successful in inducing Yale to come down and dedicate it. In the eyes of the sporting world this was an unusual feat within itself, since Yale had never been known to leave the eastern sector. But just as soon as the announcement was made Athens began making preparations for the event.

Questions.

"How in the world can Athens take care of the crowd that will flock here when Yale comes down?" was the general query. "And where will Athens put all the automobiles? How will we feed them?" Such questions as these, with many variations, were asked Dr. Sanford many times practically every day from the date of announcement of the big game until the last week, when it became apparent, except to the most obstinate, that Athens was going to handle the crowd all right and nobody would starve. But it took months of preparation to convince the doubting ones that the game was not an event too big for Athens to handle.

When the game was assured for Athens and the stadium itself had become a reality, every person in Athens except those congenitally opposed to work, or helping make a success of a civic enterprise, began looking around for something to do to help carry forward the work of handling the crowds and make a success of the program.

Aside from its significance as a sporting event, Dr. Sanford instantly recognized that the occasion presented itself as a propitious time to give national recognition to the University of Georgia's indebtedness to Yale college for early nurturing by Yale of the infant state university, founded by Abraham Baldwin, a Yale alumnus. Yale had given Georgia not only the founder of its university, but the first president of the institution and many of the early faculty were Yale men.

So Dr. Sanford proposed to the Georgia legislature that October 12 be declared a legal holiday for the purpose of honoring the memory of Senator Baldwin, whose achievements in statecraft were no less brilliant than his educational activities. The legislature complied with Dr. Sanford's request, and declared October 12, "Abraham Baldwin Day."

National Event.

Governor L. G. Hardman duly issued a proclamation carrying out the legislative desires. The stage was all set for the enactment of an event with which there are few in this year's history to compare. For the Yale-Georgia game has become a national event from the jump and received more publicity than any inter-sectional football game that has yet been played. By linking it with such an event as an inter-sectional football game, "Abraham Baldwin Day" also became a national event, attracting to the contribution of Abraham Baldwin the notice of people who might never have heard of him had it not been for football.

So, the plans were under way for the big game. However, Athens might have inwardly feared and shrunk from so gigantic a task it could not turn back. The game was a certainty, the stadium was ready to seat the crowd, there was nothing left to do but to go ahead and make it an event which would reflect credit on the enterprise of the people of Athens, as well as of Georgia—for all Georgia has helped.

The results of this co-operative effort on the part of Athens and her friends throughout the state are many. Not only has the University of Georgia been given unusual publicity but, as is pointed out by E. B. Braswell, president of the Athens Publishing Company, publishers of the Banner-Herald, "Athens and the university have received more widespread and more favorable publicity than any other southern city has ever obtained from a gridiron classic. If there be those who have never heard of Athens and the University of Georgia prior to a few months ago, it is a safe assertion that now their numbers are few."

Flood of Visitors.

"But the Georgia-Yale game has meant something more to Athens; we have learned, despite many handicaps, that by a united pull it is possible to put across a celebration of proportions that most cities would hesitate to undertake. From the outset it was realized that with the widespread publicity the game was receiving, with the consequent flood of visitors, indeed, more than the normal population—there rested upon the city a responsibility of presenting Athens to them in a manner befitting the gala occasion of the dedication of the magnificent new Sanford stadium. The mammoth new amphitheater must not impress the visitor as too large for Athens."

"Then, too, there was the problem of upholding the city's long established traditions for hospitable treatment of those within its borders. To adequately care for its visitors and to send them away as evangelists of praise and good will has been the dominant note in all the preparations, the idea being that Athens, as a city, must represent as much to the visitor as Sanford stadium does as an athletic gridiron. To that end the expenditure of neither time nor money has been spared, and just how well Athens coped with the situation will be determined by the visitor who, also, will decide to a greater or less degree, the question 'What the Georgia-Yale game means to Athens.'"

Began Work Early.

Realizing the importance of the game, and the fact that the national spotlight would play upon it for many months either favorably or unfavorably, Athens early began work to make the stupendous undertaking a success. Under the leadership of Mayor A. G. Dudley the city council appropriated funds for the purpose of decorating the city and a committee comprising E. G. Gidley, chairman; Lee Morris and M. N. Tutwiler was named to decorate the city streets, public buildings and mercantile establishments. The merchants responded 100 per cent, the result was most gratifying.

The council, aided by the civil service commission and the military department at the University of Georgia tackled the problem of traffic, and demonstrated to the doubting section of the public that Athens can easily handle the 5,000 or more visiting automobiles such a big game would attract to the city.

The question of feeding the crowd

this section, and no doubt attract new friends to the community, who will aid its development in a commercial way. "There is no doubt in my mind but that the Georgia-Yale game will stimulate the commercial development of Athens," said Mr. Gordon.

"It will prove to Athens business men that the city is capable of handling large problems and carrying them through to successful culmination. The energy that has been put forward in making the Georgia-Yale game a success, in constructing the beautiful stadium on Sanford field, can be directed to other channels as the citizens see fit, and redound to the industrial development of the community."

Charles F. Martin, executive assistant to Dr. Sanford, who handled the program for the big event and the sale of tickets, declares that the game was the greatest exploited inter-sectional football game in history. Mr. Martin has had long experience and is fully acquainted with the development of football as a gigantic business proposition, and believes the Yale game ranks at the top.

"Aid Roads." "Such a venture as the Georgia-Yale game," said Mr. Martin, "means that cities the size of Athens, as well as smaller ones that contain in their citizenry sports enthusiasts, will demand better roads in the future and will get them." Mr. Martin said, "The game has demonstrated that small cities like Athens can handle big undertakings, and it will give new pride to other cities as well as to Athens."

The commercial agents of the local railroads, Seaboard, Central of Georgia, Georgia and Southern began work several months ago to arrange for handling the thousands of people who would travel via rail from all parts of the country to Athens, with the result that 23 special trains were made up for the game, in addition to the regular trains.

Athens' airport will also benefit from the game, it is pointed out by M. N. Tutwiler, president of the Athens Aeronautical Association, organized as a result of the statewide air tour conducted by The Atlanta Constitution. Fifty-three or more planes are expected to land at the local field, carrying passengers for the game. Next year, and in other years when games equal to the popularity of the Georgia-Yale game are played here, hundreds of airplanes will be expected to land on the local field. This means, as Mr. Tutwiler asserts, that Athens must have an airport adequate for the traffic, and he feels confident that Athens will eventually possess such an airport.

From a standpoint of immediate communal benefit, Athens receives bountifully. Trade was given such a stimulus here by the game that even as far back as last week stores reported unusually active sales. House-furnishing concerns reported early this week that their orders were of such a volume that it would be difficult to handle them all. Other local stores reported enhanced business, from local patrons getting ready to put their homes in readiness for visitors, as well as from out-of-town people who also had their visitors from far and wide.

C. D. Terrell, secretary of the Athens Chamber of Commerce, realizing the opportunity for acquainting visitors with the manufacturing possibilities in Athens, arranged a "Manufacturers' Display Week" which was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and attracted hundreds of people who learned of the many products made in this city.

The Athens Garden Club began work several months ago urging home owners to improve their property for the game, and placed markers at the places of historic interest for the guidance of visitors. The Daughters of the American Revolution also contributed its share to beautifying the city, and the board of commissioners of Clarke county labored to have the stadium committee to help put the grounds in proper shape.

The Fulton county grand jury Friday returned four indictments against operators of concessions at the Southeastern Fair now in progress at Lakewood park.

C. H. Jeffries and I. Reiser were indicted jointly on charges of simple larceny and maintaining a gambling device. C. C. Jewell and Iona Maule were indicted on the charge of maintaining a gambling device only.

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin put before the grand jurors apparatus seized by his investigators and sheriff's deputies at the fair grounds Wednesday night. According to Mr. Boykin the devices not only constituted a gambling game but also were operated on the "23" scale and controlled so that the "patron" did not win unless the operator of the device so desired.

ported Friday by the state bureau of markets. Fourteen cars, or a total of approximately 215,000 pounds, were sold. The highest price was 10 cents per pound.

Sales, conducted through co-operation of county farm agents and the bureau, were held at Blakely, Augusta, Fort Valley, Jessup, Vienna, Bainbridge, Thomasville, Valdosta, Cochran and Statesboro.

ITALIANS OBSERVE "COLUMBUS DAY" AT DINNER TONIGHT

Il Circolo Italiano di Atlanta—Atlanta's Italian society—will celebrate the 437th anniversary of the discovery of America by their compatriot, Christopher Columbus, with an elaborate informal dinner-dance to be held at the Athletic club at 8 o'clock tonight. The Atlanta Foreign Trade Club is co-operating with the Circolo, the affair being held under the joint auspices of these two groups. Guido Negri, president of the Italian society and manager of the Piedmont Driving Club, will act as toastmaster.

A program of entertainment has been arranged by Maestro Emilio Volpi, secretary of the Circolo Italiano, who himself is a musician of note. Little Miss Regina Manetta, dainty juvenile dancer, will stage several numbers characteristic of sunny Italy. Madame Nora Allen Volpi, coloratura soprano, formerly with the Chicago Grand Opera Company, will sing a number of typical Italian airs. Julian Boehm, exponent of parlor magic, will demonstrate the black art as practiced by generations of Italian masters during the middle ages. Coroner Paul Donahoe, famed for his remarkable memory, will demonstrate the wizardry of mathematics.

The dance program will be in charge of Emil Savini, well-known in the moving picture world.

Funds for More Institutions Of Higher Learning in South Urged by Governor Gardner

North Carolina Executive Tells Alumni Group at Banquet of Need for Co-operation in Work.

Appealing for a new attitude toward private support for state institutions, Governor O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina, appearing here Friday night at a banquet for members of the North Carolina University Alumni Association, asked that each state, particularly his own, be provided with funds to meet what he saw as a growing demand for more and better institutions of higher learning.

The governor's address dealt chiefly with the campaign launched recently by the university's alumni loyalty fund council, the purpose of which is to obtain annual contributions from members of the alumni association.

The banquet at which Governor Gardner spoke was at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel. Other speakers included President Chase, of the university, and Toastmaster J. Shepard Bryan, former Atlanta superior court judge.

Broadcast Over Radio. Governor Gardner's address, which was broadcast over WSB and a number of other southern radio stations, follows:

"Ladies and Gentlemen of the Radio Audience:

"The first thing I wish to say is that we North Carolinians are enjoying and shall long remember this visit to Georgia.

"To the stranger within her gates Atlanta accords a pervasive welcome. And while this great commonwealth and city has achieved much that is distinctive and a source of prideful satisfaction for all the southern people, I believe that nothing impresses the visitor more than the graciousness and charm of the hospitality found here.

"Georgia and North Carolina have long been connected by intimate ties of kinship, history, and common traditions. These ties are as old as your devotion to those fine ideals of good sportsmanship which characterized the game today and they are as young as our common approach to tomorrow's problems. Georgia and North Carolina are situated close together geographically. They have almost identical economic outlooks and aspirations. Their pasts shine as bright threads frequently intertwined in the solid fabrics of our country's history and their future looms increasingly large on the horizon of American progress and achievement. It augurs well, I think, that we should take advantage of these opportunities to give expression to that spirit of neighborliness and friendship which we feel for you and which we know you feel for us.

A Growing Problem.

"I speak tonight on a problem of growing concern to all the south. The problem is that of providing adequate financial support for our state institutions of higher learning. And I address my remarks peculiarly to the alumni and friends of these institutions.

"This high privilege is rendered unique by the fact that the first state university to be chartered in America was the University of Georgia and the first to be opened was the University of North Carolina. Georgia and North Carolina therefore stand together tonight in happy union to consider the work for the realization of their early purposes, and to face the requirements, whatever they may be, of building here in the south a richer and more purposeful civilization.

"The story of higher public education in the south is too long to be recited here, but it is a story of absorbing interest. And it rises at times to the level of the magnificent and heroic. It involves, in the early years, an ideal of the commonwealth's duty to its citizens wholly different from our own, but it glows with the bright lustre of achievement. By 1860, for example, the University of North Carolina counted a student body of 600, representing 35 states, and had produced, besides a president and vice president of the United States, 13 governors of other states and a score of cabinet officers and foreign ministers. It is a story touched deeply by the tragedy of the Civil War and the black despair of its aftermath. And it is, finally, a story of heroic struggle against the almost insuperable obstacles of poverty, ignorance, and official indifference to the higher cultural needs of the people.

Recovery Accelerated.

"After the dawn of the new century, this process of recovery and rehabilitation was greatly accelerated. With the rise of the mind and the rebirth of southern industry came a new impetus in public education in all of its levels. And the very essence and spirit of this cultural and spiritual renaissance was democracy, relentless as it was youthful, of the new south.

"A living, progressive civilization is always, as to some of its aspects, in the pioneering stage. It is ever confronted by new frontiers of opportunity and achievement. If a social order is virile and healthy, these frontiers are regarded as challenges to further endeavor. If, on the other hand, it is static and on the wane, the leaders are prone to turn their eyes to the past and remain content with things as they are.

"In my judgment, we here in the south are today confronted by one of these frontiers. It is essentially spiritual in its nature, consists in a new approach to and appraisal of cultural values, and lies between those parallels which separate mediocrity from excellence. We have, in other words, achieved a mediocre respectability in higher education here in the south. Public support of our state colleges and universities, plus a few notable private benefactions and the aid of some of the educational foundations have brought us thus far, but we stand today with only the slenderest margin between the operation of these institutions and the bread and butter line.

Phillips and Dodd.

"Let me illustrate. U. B. Phillips, of Georgia, and William E. Dodd, of North Carolina, are perhaps the two greatest living authorities on southern history. But do they work in the south? Indeed, no! One had to migrate to the University of Michigan and the other to the University of Chicago, to find the materials and the financial support with which to study the history of their homeland. We southerners protest at the inadequacies and even the unfairness of American historical writing. But we do not have any ground for complaint when we will not support the collecting and preserving of southern historical source materials, to say nothing of financing their use. To suggest the distance by which we lag in such matters, try to imagine the contrary situation of the north and west relying upon us to perform a similar service for them!

"The reasons why public support stops at the head and butler line and falls short of the limits of university responsibility and opportunity are not difficult to find. In the first place, there has existed, and still exists in some degree, a serious limitation in the form of inadequate sources of revenue. The south has only recently attained to any semblance of economic security and popular support of public education in the form of taxation must always be governed by the ability of the people to pay.

"In the second place, by its very structure and purpose the state university is, if successful, the advance guard of civilization. It touches, despite the amazingly large matriculation in higher educational institutions, only a small percentage of the population. It must, therefore, derive that confidence in the efficacy and integrity of the institution itself, rather than in any absolute understanding of the significance and value of the work being done.

New Attitude Needed.

"What, then, is the answer to this problem? How shall we alumni of the University of North Carolina and Georgia and the alumni and friends of these and other southern state institutions respond to this newest challenge? In North Carolina—and I think that I am safe in assuming that the same condition prevails generally in the south—we urgently need not only the money with which immediately to endow a great collection of source material on southern history and a school of its state and a great school of medicine, but we need an entirely new attitude on the part of our alumni and friends as to the usefulness and significance of this kind of giving. Of what use are all the material riches in the world if we, as a people, lose our appreciation of that which brings to life beauty and spiritual assurance? Man does not live by bread alone and our obligation to the generations that are to come involves infinitely more than leaving them a community and state and section that are economically self-sufficient and well-ordered. It involves leaving them an environment and a civilization with which they will not find themselves spiritually at war.

"Because the University of North Carolina is launching a great endowment campaign, I now address my remarks particularly to its alumni and friends. I invite them to stand with me for a moment on the verge of this new frontier and to consider with me, by way of summary and conclusion, some of the essential and salient facts of the situation.

"As a peculiar since the University of North Carolina faces now the challenge of which I have spoken tonight, the state is supporting and will continue to support the work there as liberally as it can. But this is not sufficient. A minimum of $10,000,000 in additional endowment is not only needed, but is imperatively necessary if the institution is to fulfill its educational mission. I cannot go into a detailed analysis of these needs, but this is unnecessary at this time. Dr. Chase has indicated some of them. Neither is it necessary for me to add that Dr. Chase and I and other alumni and friends of the university are not thinking now merely in terms of a provincial state university. We are thinking, rather, of a great American university, located in the south and adequately equipped to meet the needs of a changing civilization.

Opportunity for Alumni.

"This situation, it seems to me, offers to the alumni and friends of the institution an opportunity for unexampled service to the state and rising generations. I do not know who the anonymous donor of Virginia's $6,000,000 medical school was, but I do know that his memory will be cherished by Virginians as long as this institution endures. I also know that whatever else worthwhile and great Mr. Duke may have done, North Carolina and the south will remember him as the great-hearted citizen who embodied his love for his state and fellowman in a magnificent foundation dedicated to education and public health.

"We alumni are indebted to the University of North Carolina. It gave us the training without which we could not have achieved that which we have achieved. I think we all feel this.

"And there is not one of us who does not love it. It is only natural that we should. Some of our happiest memories are of that old campus in whose remote quiet and beauty we found answers for our questions and some of life's most enduring friendships.

"With pride in its past and confidence in its future I appeal to Carolina men tonight wherever they may be to rally to the support of their university in this hour of its greatest opportunity and need."

THREE CONTESTS ON HEALTH WORK OPEN IN GEORGIA

Three competitions to be promoted by the state health department, one national and two statewide in their scope, were announced Friday by Dr. T. F. Abernethy, head of the department.

The national contest, which is sponsored by the United States Chamber of Commerce, is to determine the most healthful city in the United States.

The first of the statewide contests, backed by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, is to ascertain the most healthful city in Georgia.

The third, in which the Georgia Press Association is interested, is to determine which of the newspapers of Georgia is carrying out the most constructive health program.

Thirty Georgia cities are said to be eligible for the first two of the three contests. They are Acworth, Albany, Americus, Athens, Atlanta, Augusta, Bainbridge, Brunswick, Cairo, Camilla, Cordele, Decatur, Dublin, Griffin, LaGrange, Macon, Marietta, Milledgeville, Millen, Moultrie, Pelham, Quitman, Rome, Savannah, Thomasville, Valdosta, Waycross and West Point.

Albany, which on several occasions has won the fire prevention award for its population class, is the only Georgia city that has entered the national competition thus far.

SEVERAL PAPERS VOTED BY COUNCIL HELD BY MAYOR

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Friday approved several papers sent to him from the special council session Thursday afternoon, but held for further consideration other measures.

Included among the group he held was a new plumbing ordinance requiring that first installations carrying with them sanitary connections must be made by licensed plumbers; a revised specification for electrical wiring for the new city hall and several minor papers.

All measures sent to him from council's regular meeting were sanctioned and filed with City Clerk Walter C. Taylor.

INMAN H. SANDERS BEQUEATHS ENTIRE ESTATE TO WIDOW

The will of Inman H. Sanders, who died last week, was filed for probate Friday by his widow and a brother, John W. Sanders, the late broker's brother, who are named executors in the will.

The entire estate, no estimate of which is given, is left to Mrs. Sanders.

LOG ROLLING PLANNED BY WAYCROSS GROUP

Waycross, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Preparations are being made by the Waycross camp of the Woodmen of the World for the southeast Georgia log rolling and field day to be held in Waycross Wednesday, November 15, during the Southeast Georgia Fair.

It was announced here today that speakers for the occasion will include Ed Rivers, Lakeland, ex-candidate for the governorship of Georgia; Robert G. Plunkett, Macon, sovereign watchman of the Woodmen of the World; Dr. A. D. Williams, Folkston, president of the Southeast Georgia Log Rolling Association; Leon P. Hobby, Waycross, head consul for the Woodmen of Georgia.

ed thirteenth ward will be met with interest by a large circle of friends. He has served on virtually every important committee of council during his incumbency. Last year he headed the ordinance committee.

In addition he was a member of the finance committee for three years, a member of the police committee and board of fire masters, and served on the salary, tax, library, sewers, streets, electric lights, charter revision and benevolence and pensions during his incumbency.

"If I am honored by the people of the newly-created thirteenth ward as their councilman, I shall continue to give the same conscientious service and faithful performance to the duties which has marked my incumbency as a member of the city's governing body from the fifth ward," Mr. Barrett declared in making his announcement.

Record an Open Book.

"My record of accomplishments and the manner in which I have endeavored to protect the interests of all Atlantans is an open book. I am proud of that record. Having served as a member of virtually every important committee in the city government, I feel that I will be able to represent the new ward in an intelligent and advantageous manner. My former colleagues in council are my friends and I feel sure that I shall be able to give the ward good representation, protecting not only the interests of that particular district, but also the citizens of Atlanta at large."

Mr. Barrett is connected prominently in fraternal circles, having served in various official capacities in several of them. He is a member of the Western Heights Baptist church and teaches the J. O. Y. class in that Sunday school.

He is a member of the legal firm of Harwell, Fairman & Barrett, with offices in the Citizens & Southern Bank building.

MEMBER MISSING, LAWYER "DRAFTED" ON FULTON JURY

When a divorce court jury reported for duty to Judge E. D. Thomas in Fulton superior court Friday morning, one of the panel was missing.

Before court opened a number of lawyers, including W. C. Munday, Sr., had informed the jury they were in favor of speedy action during the session in order that they might get through with their business and attend the football game at Grant field in the afternoon.

Mind of Mr. Munday's request, Judge Thomas conscripted him to fill the vacant seat in the jury box and rushed the waiting case to trial. It is believed to be the first time in the history of the county that a lawyer has been conscripted for jury service.

When the case was completed Mr. Munday came out of the box and appeared as an attorney in the next case.

When court recessed he collected the $2 fee him for jury service and bought a ticket to the football game.

HALL-LAVARRE PAPER SURVEY TO BE BEGUN

Provisions of Two Decrees of Judge Deaver Completed at Macon.

Macon, Ga., October 11.—(P)—Two major provisions of the recent Harold Hall-William Lavarre decree of Federal Judge Bascom S. Deaver, made following a hearing of 29 days, were carried out here today.

Judge Deaver appointed three additional persons to serve with J. T. Webb, Jr., commissioner, and P. T. Anderson in a general survey to determine if four newspapers in the Hall-Lavarre chain could be operated at a profit pending such efforts as can be made to refinance them, or sell the stock.

Those named are Victor Markwalter, of Augusta; L. C. Dodge, of Spartanburg, S. C.; and W. C. Rison, of Columbia, S. C.

Judge Deaver also appointed Pope E. Brock, member of the Macon law firm of Brock, Sparks and Russell, to serve as special master in the case to handle the accounting features between the two litigants.

Mr. Webb is custodian of the stocks and funds of the papers involved—the Augusta Chronicle, the Spartanburg Herald and Journal, and the Columbia Record—will act as chairman of the commission. The survey will begin at once, it is stated. The final decree of Judge Deaver provided that an accounting shall be

Local Plane Believed Used In Flight of Navy Paymaster

ALLEGED ABSCONDER IS TRACED TO TAMPA

Tampa, Fla., October 11.—(P)—Government officials and others continued today a search begun yesterday for Lieutenant Charles Musel, U. S. N., disbursing officer, alleged to have disappeared from Charleston, S. C., September 28, last, with $50,000 in government funds. The hunt here was based on information that a man answering Musel's description had chartered passage on a plane from Atlanta, Ga., for a flight to Tampa.

The investigation developed that a man resembling Musel landed at the local airport Wednesday among other passengers, that he carried a large sum of money and paid for his passage with a $1,000 bill. The suspect was traced to a hotel, but had checked out early yesterday morning.

The search was extended to vessels leaving the harbor, but no new clues had been found early today, it was reported.

According to officials of Southern Air Transport at Candler field, a party of three men awakened Doug Davis early Wednesday morning to charter a plane for Tampa. The men stated that they had been delayed by made to determine the obligations of Hall and Lavarre, respectively, following various withdrawals.

Mr. Brock as special master, will hear evidence between October 21 and November 9 to reach this determination, according to Judge Deaver's order. Mr. Brock's appointment was by agreement of counsel, it was announced.

washouts on the Atlantic Coast Line bound for Florida and were re-routed through Atlanta. They obtained the airplane and were piloted to Tampa by George A. Shealy, arriving there about 2 or 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, after departing from Candler field at 6 o'clock in the morning.

The information recalled Friday concerning the chartered trip was that one of the men, who gave his name as "Mr. Ober," seemed to have a large amount of cash with him. He was reported to have changed a $1,000 bill to pay for his share of the chartered plane. Ober was said to have explained the urgency of his flight to Tampa and the possession of a considerable amount of money by the fact that he was "due to pay an extra assessment of income tax."

He was said to have indicated he owned property in Florida as well as in Philadelphia and that he had to be at the federal building in Tampa to prevent levying on his property for unpaid income tax. His income tax was set at $30,000 by the government, which was $30,000 more than his original returns, Ober is quoted as stating.

One of the three passengers that left the plane Wednesday morning was disembarked at Jacksonville. It was understood that he was a bond salesman ordered to Jacksonville by his firm on a business transaction. A second passenger, United States as well as recalled as Captain Craig, disembarked with Ober at Tampa, taking a second plane to Key West. He told a member of the transport company that he was ordered by his shipping concern in Philadelphia to take charge of a boat that would be waiting for him at the Key West port.

Gov. Roosevelt Visits Mercer Campus at Macon

Macon, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of New York, paid a hurried visit to the Mercer university campus yesterday afternoon before returning to his winter home in Warm Springs.

Dr. John B. Clarke, dean of the college of arts and sciences and dean of the graduate school, took charge of the welcoming of the New York executive. He shook hands with the students and faculty who had gathered to meet him. After asking several questions about the school, he expressed the hope that some southern college would establish a public health department, as such a course should be offered in all secondary educational institutions.

Mr. Roosevelt came to Macon to deliver an address to the Rotary Club of the city and declined an invitation to speak to the Mercer students because of the lack of time.

CORONER PROBES MYSTERY DEATH AT HAWKINSVILLE

Hawkinsville, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Investigation into the sudden death of J. H. Hardy, young cafe proprietor, on September 28 was held by a coroner's jury here today and as a result the body was ordered taken up and the stomach removed and carried to a chemist in Atlanta for examination.

Young Hardy died at his home here of an illness thought to be the result of drinking whiskey and eating bananas, causing acute indigestion. Further developments will depend upon the report of the findings of the chemist some time next week.

ATTEMPT TO BRIBE TARIFF EXPERTS WILL BE PROBED

Washington, October 11.—(P)—Reports of an attempt to influence experts of the tariff commission will receive first attention of the senate lobby committee after it begins hearings Tuesday.

William Burgess, a former republican member of the tariff commission, of Morristown, N. J., and Frederick L. Koch, an expert now in the college of arts and sciences and dean of the graduate school, took charge of the welcoming of the New York executive. He shook hands with the students and faculty who had gathered to meet him. After asking several questions about the school, he expressed the hope that some southern college would establish a public health department, as such a course should be offered in all secondary educational institutions.

Meanwhile, Chairman Shortridge, of the senate committee investigating the activities of William B. Shearer for shipbuilders at the 1927 Geneva naval limitations conference, indicated today that the hearings would not be resumed for perhaps a week or ten days.

Excessive Rain Causes Evacuation Of Miami Sections

Miami, Fla., October 11.—(P)—Excessive rainfall in the Miami section for the last several days caused complete evacuation of the negro section and part of the white residential section of Hialeah, it was stated tonight by city officials. The northwest section of the city is under water backing up from the Everglades and the water has entered several homes standing on the floors to a depth of several inches.

White persons are being housed in the city hall, where food is being furnished by the American Red Cross and the city of Hialeah.

POLL TO DECIDE POWER PLANT SALE AT BARNESVILLE

Barnesville, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—The permanent registration book closes tomorrow preparatory to the voting on the sale of the electric light plant, on October 22. This is one of the most heated elections in the history of the town.

There are three questions, namely, whether to sell at all, whether to sell to the Georgia Power Company, or to the Hydroelectric Company.

REBUILD BRIDGES NEAR MONTEZUMA

Montezuma, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—The county commissioners, at a meeting held in Oglethorpe, authorized that immediate plans be made to rebuild the bridges over Hog Crawl creek and Buck creek, which collapsed during the recent high water in this section.

These bridges, which were of concrete and the longest bridges in the county, will entail a heavy expense and will probably not be completed for several months. Temporary bridges will be built as soon as possible, opening these roads to traffic.

Upson County Sued for Damage Of $145,000

Macon, Ga., October 11.—(P)—Seven suits aggregating $145,000 were served today by United States Marshal C. W. Mosley on the commissioners of Upson county.

The suits, brought by residents of Alabama, are the result of death last March of D. L. Wolf and the injury of others, when an automobile in which they were riding went into Flint river shortly after a bridge on the highway had been washed away.

It is alleged in the suits that the commissioners of Upson county had ample time to make repairs.

Plaintiffs in the actions and the amount of their claims are:
Mrs. Mary Wolf, widow of D. L. Wolf, $30,000 for the loss of her husband and $20,000 for personal injuries; R. C. Miller, personal injuries $25,000; Clarence Wolf, 14, personal injuries, $25,000; Velma Miller, 9, personal injuries, $25,000; Zelma Miller, 9, personal injuries, $25,000; Hazel Miller, 13, personal injuries, $25,000; and Mrs. Leona Wolf Stencil, personal injuries, $5,000.

The attorneys who filed the suits are T. P. Stephens, of Tifton; Renben R. Arnold, and Lowry Arnold, and Archibald H. Davis, Atlanta.
